Slow Insurance
Q. In November, my husband was killed by a hit-and-run driver. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and carried an insurance policy through them. I've filled out the proper forms, but have heard nothing from the company. Mrs. M.L., Long Beach.
A. Robert Jacob, department quartermaster for the VFW in Sacramento, says he is working on your case and that you shouldn't be too worried about the delay. "I'll call the insurance company myself," he said. "We've written to them on Jan. 2 and April 14 asking about the status of your payment, but have not heard from them." He said he will be in contact with your post commander, but that you should check with your post to make sure the insurance beneficiary's designation card is on file.

Q. For the last 16 months, I have tried to get an autograph of Field Marshal Viscount Bernard Law Montgomery to add to my collection of notable Britons. A. ACTION LINE contacted Paul C. Richards, an autograph dealer at 233 Harvard St. in Brookline, Mass. 02146. Richards said he has authentic autographs of British notables from King Henry VII on, including several of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery. He has two photographs of the World War hero, one signed "Montgomery of Alamein" for $20, the other signed "Bernard Law Montgomery, General" for $25. He also has three letters signed by Montgomery, ranging in price from $25 to $35, and a commemorative envelope signed by him in 1968 for $10. Montgomery gained fame in World War II by outfoxing Germany's "Desert Fox," Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, in a crucial battle at El Alamein in North Africa in 1942. Under the supreme command of the late Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Montgomery led the Allied Armies which invaded Normandy in June of 1944, and he led the 21st Army Group across the Rhine to receive the German surrender on May 4, 1945. After the war, Montgomery served for seven years as NATO Deputy Allied commander in Europe. He retired in 1958.

Also, I was promised a free garment which I never got. I have called them many times, and they promise to look into the matter, but nothing is ever done. Can ACTION LINE help? P.L.L. Indian Adoption
Q. I am interested in possibly adopting an American Indian child. I have visited many Indian reservations and feel the Indians are the most underprivileged Americans in our country. Can you tell me how to locate an adoption agency or home that deals with American Indian children? G.W., San Pedro.
A. The Los Angeles County Bureau of Adoptions has some full and half-blood Indian children in foster homes who could be adopted, said Jean Selden, district director of the Long Beach branch of the bureau, 120 E. Ocean Blvd. She said you should come into the Long Beach office to inquire about adoption procedures. Besides finding Indian children locally, the bureau can locate through the Adoption Resource Exchange of North America Indian children in Canada and the United States who are up for adoption. Both public and private adoption agencies cooperate with ARENA to match up children, who because of ethnic or racial backgrounds or handicaps are considered hard to place, with people wishing to adopt them. For more information about the ARENA program, contact the Bureau of Adoptions.

Q. Could you please tell me about an organization called the Seventh Step Foundation? N.W., Long Beach.
A. The Seventh Step Foundation is a national, non-profit organization composed of interested citizens and ex-convicts. The foundation, founded by author and ex-convict Bill Sands, tries to help ex-convicts readjust from the regimented prison life to the outside world and to help them find jobs. The Long Beach chapter of Seventh Step Foundation, 316 E. Seventh St., 436-7837, has been in operation since last summer and holds meetings every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The meetings are open to the public. Besides helping ex-convicts find jobs, the local chapter is sending speakers to talk with prison inmates, teenagers on the borderline of crime and other individuals and organizations. Since it is still trying to get organized, the chapter needs financial help, volunteer office help, office equipment and, above all, local employers willing to give ex-convicts a chance, said Bruce Kerr, chapter treasurer and a "Square John," — a man with no criminal record.

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

County supervisors vowed Friday they will dig deeply into county pay raise proposals which threaten to add some $45 million to next fiscal year's budget.
Typical of the reactions was a statement by Supervisor Burton Chace, who represents Long Beach and vicinity.
"I want to take a hard look at the salary recommendations by the director of personnel," he said.
"The problem in holding the line on salaries is that, by charter, supervisors must authorize wages which are competitive with wages in private industry. That really leaves little leeway," he added.
Supervisor Frank Bonelli suggested the salary problem could be eased by reducing the number of proposed additional employees. There are 7,714 new jobs requested.

"I BELIEVE that the possible 28.7-cent property tax increase in the budget is substantially related to the alarming hike in the number of county personnel," Bonelli said. "Once employees are added to the payroll, they're with us. So the cost becomes a recurring one, and the tax rate boost is perpetuated annually."
Other supervisors were generally in agreement.
Personnel Director Gordon Nesvig unveiled his salary recommendations Friday. They contained increases for almost all employees, ranging from 2.75 to 13.75 per cent, with three quarters of the work force at 5.5 per cent.
Those at the lower end number only 1,274. They are mostly in the classes of survey rodman and chairman, building inspector and construction inspector.

BUT NESVIG said a current study might show these workers need bigger raises to keep up with prevailing wages.
The 13.75 per cent increase also will go to only a few persons — 246 of them, mostly window washers.

Spokesmen said a big Marine CH-46 troop carrier and a smaller Army UH-1 collided about 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone.
The main rotor blades of the two helicopters meshed, sending the CH-46 to the ground in flames.
The Army helicopter suffered only minor damage and there were no casualties, spokesmen said.
"The CH-46 had just taken off from a landing zone," a spokesman said. "That's all we know."

NEW YORK (AP) — Burglars stole $1 million worth of negotiable stock from a broker's office in lower Manhattan Friday, police reported.

Cleveland Jones, 50, a porter, said he was bound and gagged by six men about 3 a.m. He worked himself free four hours later and phoned police, who found that 16 safes had been ripped open in offices throughout the four-story building.

The missing stock, in 65 companies, was taken from Edelstein & Co., which reported a quick inventory enabled it to put out stop orders on $250,000 worth.

Other companies in the building reported only small losses, mostly petty cash and stamps.

Plan Cut in Peace
Corpsmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon Administration plans to cut back the Peace Corps budget, reducing the number of young men and women trained as volunteers by 12 per cent, it was disclosed Friday.

The cut in the agency's budget for the next fiscal year came to public attention Friday in a brief item inserted in the Congressional Record by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Fulbright introduced a bill to trim the number of volunteers to be trained in the next 12 months from 8,500 to 7,500. This will permit the Administration to cut the Peace Corps budget by $8.7 million to a level of $101.1 million.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he reserved the right to oppose the cutback when the committee considers the authorization measure later in the year. He introduced the measure by request.

Brent Ashabranner, who has served as acting director in the first months of the Administration, emphasized that the reductions in the number of trainees will have little immediate effect on the total number of volunteers in the corps. He acknowledged, however, that the cutback in trainees could cause a large dip in the total number of volunteers serving in the 1971 program year.

SIDEWALK VISIT
Nixon Surprises Kids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A few thousand tourists standing in line to visit the White House Friday got an unexpected thrill — a sidewalk visit from the President.

For about 15 minutes, President Nixon stood in the warm sunshine on the sidewalk outside the southeast gate of the White House, walking through the line, shaking hands and exchanging pleasantries.

Most of the tourists were school children, here for traditional springtime visits to the capital.

"You're both brave girls," the President laughed to Pat Regen and Florence Merker, both fifth grade teachers from Mary Ethel Costello School in Gloucester City, N.J. They were shepherding their classes, trying to keep order.

"I remember my fifth grade teacher," the President told them. "I heard from her just the other day. She's now 70 years old."

Nixon was surrounded by jubilant youngsters as he made his way down the street.

The President was on the way across the street to the treasury for a meeting with his financial advisers.

He stopped briefly to chat with 12-year-old Tom Gammino of Wakefield, R.I., a victim of severe asthma, who was visiting Mrs. Nixon in observance of National Asthma Week.

Tom told the President he has coped with his disability so well that he is a member of the touch football team at the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital in Denver. He proudly displayed a football trophy to the President.

"You did better than I did. I never made the team," Nixon said.

President Seaks Congress' Help to Fight Smutty Mail

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon reported Friday that "American homes are being bombarded with the largest volume of sex-oriented mail in history," and he asked Congress for three new laws to stop it.
The President proposed to shield young people from "offensive sex materials, to keep some smut advertising out of everyone's mailbox and to prevent delivery of any "sex-oriented" ads to people who don't want them.

In a message to Congress, Nixon emphasized that the Administration had taken into account recent Supreme Court decisions in the obscenity area and had "carefully studied the legal terrain of this problem."

HE SAID most of the mail involved "is unsolicited, unwanted, and deeply offensive to those who receive it." Complaints to the Post Office Department have nearly doubled since 1964, he said.

"One hundred and forty thousand letters of protest came in during the last nine months alone," the President wrote, "and the volume is increasing. Mothers and fathers by the tens of thousands have written to the White House and the Congress."

NEW YORK — A thousand white students drove 200 militant black students off the Queens College campus Friday after the Negroes vandalized college buildings for the second consecutive day.

About 500 helmeted police surged onto the campus minutes later to preserve the peace and the school president announced the college would be closed at least through Monday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — An educator proposed Friday that a "flying squad" of distinguished professors be formed to investigate and mediate student flareups on campuses. Dr. G. Theodore Mitau, chancellor of the Minnesota State College System, made the recommendation at a conference of the American Association of University Professors.

The militants, members of a special ghetto student program known as Search for Education, Enlightenment and Knowledge (SEEEK), had stormed the faculty lounge and smashed windows of the social science building and student cafeteria, forcing cancellation of all afternoon classes at the 24,000-student institution.

The whites gathered at the campus library and applauded speakers who urged them not to let SEEEK students "wreck our campus." Then they followed the Negroes across campus edging them toward a gate and shouting, "Out, out, out!" and, "Go, go, go!"

When the blacks resisted, blows were exchanged, stones were thrown, and one white youth was felled after he was hit by a wooden plank. The fighting lasted about five minutes until the whites managed to shove the blacks out the gate which they closed behind them.

A NUMBER of the speakers at the library rally demanded that college president Joseph Murray call the police to end the vandalism. In the expectation

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Ja-Neen Welch, the hounding blonde from Indianapolis who latched onto the campaign of George C. Wallace last year, will plead innocent in a Chicago court next week on a prostitution charge. "It was a frame-up," Miss Welch's attorney, Sidney Novit, said Friday.

"If you can't trust your own policemen, who can you trust?" she asked. "Maybe this is what Governor Wallace meant when he said we needed more law and order. Since she met Wallace she has not 'looked at another man,'" she said. "No one could replace him."

Miss Welch was arrested March 11 in the Palmer House Hotel in Chicago by vice detective Mary Mandel who said she invited him to her room for a price.

She reached her political pinnacle when she announced she and the former Alabama governor were in love and might get married. A quick and embarrassed disclaimer by Wallace sent Miss Welch back to Indianapolis. Mandel said he was in the Palmer House arcade on the day of the arrest when Miss Welch approached him and suggested they go to her room. In the room, after taking $100, Miss Welch took off her clothes, Mandel said. He told her to put them back on and come with him to headquarters, he said. "The arrest was obviously political, nothing else. Ja-Neen was carrying $300 with her at the time and one of the first rules of prostitution is that you don't carry that kind of dough when you're turning a trick," her attorney said.

DOCTOR STRIKE

About 6,000 government and private doctors went on a 24-hour strike in Bihar, India Friday to protest the mob lynching last month of a physician. The mob in Dalmianagar had been so infuriated by a rumor that a local citizen had died after an injection at a hospital that it lynched Dr. S. A. Murtaza, physician in charge of the hospital.

NAMATH SCORES LEGAL TD

Football hero Joe Namath was fined $50 for speeding Friday but scored a legal touchdown in traffic court when drunk driving charges were dismissed. "I think it was a fair case," the New York Jets star said afterward as a crowd of newsmen trailed him out of judge Arthur Winston's courtroom. Besides the speeding fine he had to pay $5 in court costs. The modishly dressed superstar had repeatedly insisted since his 4 a.m. arrest last April 14 on Miami's 79th Street causeway that he was not drunk at the time of his arrest. He was vindicated in court by the results of a test, which he voluntarily took, which showed only a small amount of alcohol in his system.

NEW POST FOR U.S. CARDINAL

John J. Cardinal Wright of Pittsburgh, one of the four newly elevated U.S. cardinals, was named by Pope Paul VI Friday to head one of the nine ministries in the central government of the Roman Catholic Church. The 59-year-old cardinal was appointed prefect of the Vatican Congregation Ministry for the Clergy. He becomes the only American heading a congregation and the third American in history ever named to such a high post in the Roman Curia. Cardinal Wright takes over from Jean Cardinal Villot of France, who was named to be secretary of state, equivalent to premier in the church government under the Pope. The congregation given to Cardinal Wright is responsible for insuring that the Catholic clergy functions in line with Vatican regulations for the conduct of pastoral affairs.

"I smoke two packs a day myself, and customers are smoking as much as ever."

SUSPECTED BOMBER OF PLANE DIES

Robert Vernon Spears, suspected a decade ago of planting a bomb on a plane that went down in the Gulf of Mexico, died in Baylor Medical Center Friday. A spokesman for the hospital did not give the cause of the death. The plane that crashed Nov. 16, 1959, was a National Airlines Transport. Although a bomb was suspected, the cause could never be determined because the water the plane crashed in was too deep. Spears for weeks was assumed to have been one of the passengers. Then it was discovered that William Taylor of Tampa, Fla., a friend, took his place at the last moment. The change was discovered when Spears was arrested near Phoenix in 1960, driving Taylor's car. Spears went to prison on a charge of car theft. He later served a term in a California prison for abortion. After his release, he dropped out of sight. Spears had a wife and child in Dallas.

The statements were made on the Joey Bishop Show April 25, 1968.

Red Offensive On the Wane

Combined News Services
SAIGON, Saturday — U.S. forces overwhelmed a Communist unit just northwest of Saigon under combined firepower of tanks, planes and artillery, military spokesmen said today. But ambushers killed two GIs and wounded 11 in another battle near the capital.

The seesaw action around Saigon was reported in war communiques that followed the first official word that the U.S. command believes the Communist winter-spring offensive is on the wane. The U.S. command said it was not writing off the offensive that began Feb. 22-23. But it said Allied forces had killed 33,000 Communist troops since then and it appeared Red commanders had no choice but to scale down the drive and retreat into jungle hideouts.

Surprise Arab Summit Meeting

DAMASCUS — Syrian President Nouruddin Al-Atassi conferred with President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Cairo Friday as their troops fought separate battles with Israeli forces. The surprise summit apparently resulted from Nasser's call for united military fronts east and west of Israel. Atassi, who has been under pressure to end his estrangement from Nasser and unite with other Arab states against Israel, arrived unannounced with his defense minister. They went immediately into conference with Nasser. Meanwhile, Egyptian and Israeli guns blazed across the Suez Canal for five hours Friday. At the U.N., meantime, Secretary General Thant made public his warning that he may withdraw the U.N. observer force from the Suez Canal sector unless Egyptian and Israeli troops take steps to protect the U.N. contingent.

New Irish Cabinet Picked

BELFAST — New Premier James Chichester-Clark selected a cabinet Friday to help him end Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic-Protestant strife. In the streets of Belfast, demonstrators gave him only a 24-hour political honeymoon. Protestant militants mustered for a night march in Belfast to demonstrate their opposition to the Roman Catholic minority's campaign for equal voting, housing and other civil rights.

Sino-Soviet Border Talks

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union announced Friday it has invited Red China to meet with its representatives at their Ussuri River border in May to discuss a reduction in the hostilities that have killed more than 40 Russian troops and many Chinese this year. The Soviets said the proposed confrontation would take the form of a meeting of the Sino-Soviet commission on border line navigation and would be held in the Soviet Siberian city of Khabarovsk.

Mexican Blast Kills Five

MEXICO CITY — An explosion killed five persons and injured 110 Friday in and around an abandoned gunpowder plant where squatters lived. The blast in suburban Naucalpan de Juarez knocked 50 houses apart. Officials believed one of the squatters who lived in the building may innocently have touched off the explosion by striking buried and forgotten dynamite stores beneath the cellar floor. The man had apparently been hacking away with a pickaxe and his remains were found near the crater.

White House Picketing Curbed

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Earl Warren Friday ordered restrictions on picketing in front of the White House continued until challenges to the regulations can be ruled on by the U.S. Court of Appeals. The Interior Department has been limiting the number of demonstrators to 100 on the sidewalk in front of the executive mansion and to 500 in Lafayette Park across Pennsylvania Avenue. These regulations, and others requiring permits for use of park service land in the Washington area, were struck down April 26 by Federal District Judge William B. Bryant as an invasion of the constitutional rights to free speech and assembly. The appeals court has scheduled arguments May 9 of the Justice Department appeal of the decision.

Market Up 33.17 in Week

NEW YORK — The stock market charged back Friday with a strong advance after pausing to catch its breath from one of biggest gains Tuesday and Wednesday on hopes of real progress in Vietnam peace talks. It settled down Thursday and started off at an easy pace Friday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a gain of 3.06 points at noon and then expanded it to 7.95 points at 957.17, a new 1969 high, by the close. The gain for the week was 33.17 points.

Attack on College, Not Art

FLINT — The director of the Flint Institute of Art said Friday in Michigan the smashing of sculptures and paintings by several dozen black vandals spilled over from a protest against the Flint Community Junior College. "This was not an attack on an art museum at all," he said. "This was an attack on the college." The vandals rushed into the Institute Thursday, quickly toppled sculptures, pedestals and displays of paintings.

Chrysler Cuts Valiant Prices

DETROIT — Chrysler Corp. cut the prices of its lowest priced car line, the Plymouth Valiant, Friday, touching off the possibility of industry-wide price cuts. The cuts ranged from $167 to $193. Ford, General Motors and American Motors said they had no plans for similar price slashes, but Chrysler's surprise move appeared certain to have widespread effects on the auto market. The price cuts were designed to "keep the Valiant competitive."

GM Workers Hit by Cutback

DETROIT — Giant General Motors Corp., plagued by strikes at key assembly plants across the country, Friday cut back production at 11 more supplier plants to bring the total number of workers affected to 63,100. The latest cutbacks affected 12,323 workers in six states. GM said some of them were laid off and others had their work weeks cut back to four days. The number of workers affected now includes 36,100 strikers at eight plants and 27,000 employees laid off or working short weeks at other plants.

$1 Million Viet Compensation

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Government has been paying the South Vietnamese people about $1 million a year to compensate for "nonbattle" damages caused by American troops, Pentagon records show. These claims are settled by the South Vietnamese government, which receives a great deal of financial aid from the U.S.

Wallace Blonde Held for Prostitution

Combined News Services

Ja-Neen Welch, the bouncing blonde from Indianapolis who latched onto the campaign of George C. Wallace last year, will plead innocent in a Chicago court next week on a prostitution charge. "It was a frame-up," Miss Welch's attorney, Sidney Novit, said Friday.

"If you can't trust your own policemen, who can you trust?" she asked. "Maybe this is what Governor Wallace meant when he said we needed more law and order. Since she met Wallace she has not 'looked at another man,' she said. 'No one could replace him.'"

Miss Welch was arrested March 11 in the Palmer House Hotel in Chicago by vice detective Marv Mandel who said she invited him to her room for a price.

She reached her political pinnacle when she announced she and the former Alabama governor were in love and might get married. A quick and embarrassed disclaimer by Wallace sent Miss Welch back to Indianapolis. Mandel said he was in the Palmer House arcade on the day of the arrest when Miss Welch approached him and suggested they go to her room. In the room, after taking $100, Miss Welch took off her clothes, Mandel said. He told her to put them back on and come with him to headquarters, he said. "The arrest was obviously political, nothing else. Ja-Neen was carrying $300 with her at the time and one of the first rules of prostitution is that you don't carry that kind of dough when you're turning a trick," her attorney said.

Insurance Fraud Nets Ex-Policeman 1-to-10 Sentence

A former Los Angeles police officer received a one-to-ten year state prison sentence Friday for setting fire to a Pico Rivera billiard parlor to collect insurance.

Superior Court Judge D. Storry Fagan ordered the sentence for Laurence Herman, 30, who was accused of arson and the burning of property with intent to defraud the insurer.

Herman's boyhood friend and co-owner of the billiard parlor, 29-year-old fellow officer David L. Worsham, died in the June 1968 blaze.

In an earlier nonjury trial, Judge Fagan found Herman guilty of the fraud charge, but acquitted him of the arson count.

The prosecution argued that Herman and Worsham had set fire to the parlor to collect almost $40,000 in insurance. Worsham was killed in an explosion caused by the fire.

Herman and Worsham had gone through the Police Academy together. Herman was not charged with Worsham's death, because it was accidental.

THE LIVING ENDS Verdict Covers Bare Necessities

Bottomless dancing was declared out of bounds in Los Angeles Municipal Court Friday when a jury found two dancers guilty of lewd conduct and indecent exposure.

A guilty verdict was also returned against Wayne L. Conner, the owner of the "Bon-Ga-Loo" lounge, North Hollywood, where the dancing occurred.

Conner, 30, of Sun Valley, was found guilty of assisting in an act of indecent exposure.

The two women are Kathryn L. Kressler, also known as "Kitty Day," 22, of Venice, and Gwendolyn Barnard, 27, of Pacoima.

Municipal Court Judge Pat Mullendore set May 29 for sentencing.

The verdict by a seven-woman, four-man jury was returned after five hours of deliberation.

There were only 11 jurors on the panel because one panel member became ill after the trial started and no alternates had been selected.

The city attorney's office and defense lawyers agreed to proceed with the remaining 11 jurors.

A MISDEMEANOR charge against a fourth defendant, Robert M. Toupin, 30, of North Hollywood, accused of assisting in an act of indecent exposure, was dropped by Judge Mullendore before the case went to the jury.

The defendants were arrested Feb. 4. Since then Conner and other dancers have been cited approximately 40 times.

Baby Sale Defendants Sentenced

A member of the Hell's Angels motorcycle club and his woman companion were each sentenced to 180 days in county jail Friday on a charge of obtaining money for an adoption involving their 4-month-old son without intending to go through with it.

Dore Anthony de Madonna, 29, and Mrs. Sarah Jane Stewart, 18, had pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge April 9.

They were sentenced by Los Angeles Superior Court Judge D. Storry Fagan. De Madonna and Mrs. Stewart last Jan. 9 pleaded innocent to charges of selling the infant, Anthony Lee Stewart, for $700 to the William Deljan family, of Glendale, in October of 1968.

The pair allegedly used the money they got for the baby to buy a motorcycle and take a trip to Kansas.

Following the innocent pleas, to the baby-selling charges, the district attorney filed the lesser charge to which both pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Stewart claims de Madonna fathered the infant. She is married to a serviceman but says she is seeking a divorce.

55 Arrested for Narcotics

Fifty-five persons were arrested on narcotics charges Friday at homes and apartments throughout San Bernardino County by sheriff's deputies acting on secret grand jury indictments.

Sheriff Frank Bland said 10,000 doses of dangerous drugs, three pounds of marijuana, small quantities of heroin and narcotics paraphernalia were confiscated.

The information against the corporation noted it was requiring or permitting drivers to drive more than 10 hours without having eight consecutive hours off-duty time.

The U.S. attorney said the corporation was convicted of violations of motor carrier regulations in 1959, 1963 and 1964.

HE DIDN'T DIE: AWARDED $40,000

A Huntington Park man who almost four years ago had only a year to live Friday gave the doctor who said so a bill — for $40,000.

Donald L. Correll, 49, won a suit against Dr. G. R. Ramage Jr., of South Gate and was awarded damages by a Superior Court jury in Los Angeles.

Correll said when he was warned of impending death, he made funeral arrangements, quit his bus driver's job with the Southern California Rapid Transit District and lost 18 years' seniority and pension rights.

He added he tried to break an engagement to Kathryn Tate, 35, but she refused and now is Mrs. Correll. Correll is a school bus driver.

Historic Tunnel Tree Has Fallen

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP) — After nearly 90 years as a tourist attraction, the world-famed Wawona Tunnel tree has fallen.

Park rangers report snow plow crews working in the Mariposa Grove area at the south end of the park discovered the demise of the 234-foot sequoia redwood.

Rangers believe the tree, estimated 1,500 to 2,000 years old, fell early in the winter and was not noticed because of a heavy snow cover.

Millions of tourists have ridden through the tree since 1881 when a burn scar was enlarged to accommodate stage coaches and later automobiles.

Learys Ask Dismissal of Charges

One-time Harvard University professor Timothy Leary, his wife, Rosemary, and his son, John, asked dismissal Friday of Grand Jury indictments for narcotics possession.

The younger Leary, a 19-year-old former student, surrendered himself to Santa Ana Superior Court Judge James F. Judge to answer the Grand Jury charges accusing him of possessing both marijuana and LSD.

Dr. Leary, 48, and his wife, 33, were arraigned two weeks ago.

Their pleas were delayed until Friday so John could surrender. He was in the East when the indictment was returned.

The Learys were arrested in Laguna Beach Dec. 26. Police said they were in an auto parked in the center of the street with its lights burning.

Each of the Learys is represented by a different attorney, all of whom joined in the dismissal motion. Each is at liberty under bail.

State Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, said in Sacramento Friday night the jury in the Sirhan Sirhan murder trial made a "responsible" decision in improving the death penalty on the assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"With this courageous and responsible decision, it is clear that uppermost in the jury members' minds was the thought that they might set an example which would serve to protect other persons from those who might be contemplating similar acts of violence," said Deukmejian, in a speech to the Lambda Alpha Epsilon professional law enforcement fraternity.

"As one who personally believes in the deterrent effect of capital punishment, I feel that these citizens have indeed saved some lives," Deukmejian said. "It is my opinion that if the Sirhan jury had not imposed the death penalty, it could have marked the beginning of an 'open season' on political leaders."

The lawmaker is a possible candidate for attorney general next year.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democratic Leader Jess M. Unruh Friday commended as "far-sighted" the waiver of federal law by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch which enabled California to enforce its own stronger smog control standards.

extraordinary" conditions in California.

Finch, the state's lieutenant governor before he was appointed to President Nixon's cabinet, told a news conference:

"The unique combination of topography, low wind speeds, atmospheric inversions and sunlight, together with a large automobile population, produce the most severe photochemical smog to be found in the nation."

He said photochemical smog requires stricter control of motor vehicle emissions to achieve desired air quality. (Photochemical smog results from the chemical reaction of sunlight on auto emissions that transforms them into poisonous substance such as ozone, a principal ingredient in California smog).

The stricter California standards will take effect with the 1971 model year when a reduction in the emission of oxides of nitrogen — which contribute to photochemical smog — will be required. These emissions were not covered in the federal regulations.

Finch said his permission for the tougher state standards was "consistent with the provisions of the clean air act of 1968" and an amendment to it by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Murphy, who joined Finch at the news conference, said his amendment says the state has the right to set more stringent controls because California had more experience with smog and he saw no reason why the state should step backwards.

Finch said, "the need is clear. Therefore I am granting the formal request from the state of California to apply more stringent standards of air pollution control relating to motor vehicle emissions than those established by federal regulation."

Insurance Fraud Nets Ex-Policeman 1-to-10 Sentence

A former Los Angeles police officer received a one-to-ten year state prison sentence Friday for setting fire to a Pico Rivera billiard parlor to collect insurance.

Superior Court Judge D. Sterry Fagan ordered the sentence for Laurence Herman, 30, who was accused of arson and the burning of property with intent to defraud the insurer.

Herman's boyhood friend and co-owner of the billiard parlor, 29-year-old fellow officer David L. Worsham, died in the June 1968 blaze.

In an earlier nonjury trial, Judge Fagan found Herman guilty of the fraud charge, but acquitted him of the arson count.

The prosecution argued that Herman and Worsham had set fire to the parlor to collect almost $40,000 in insurance. Worsham was killed in an explosion caused by the fire.

Herman and Worsham had gone through the Police Academy together. Herman was not charged with Worsham's death, because it was accidental.

THE LIVING ENDS

Verdict Covers Bare Necessities

Bottomless dancing was declared out of bounds in Los Angeles Municipal Court Friday when a jury found two dancers guilty of lewd conduct and indecent exposure.

A guilty verdict was also returned against Wayne J. Conner, the owner of the "Boo-Ga-Lou" lounge, North Hollywood, where the dancing occurred.

Conner, 30, of San Valley, was found guilty of assisting in an act of indecent exposure.

The two women are Kathryn L. Kressler, also known as "Kitty Day," 22, of Venice, and Gwendolyn Barnard, 27, of Pacoima.

Municipal Court Judge Pat Mullendore set May 29 for sentencing.

The verdict by a seven-woman, four-man jury was returned after five hours of deliberation.

There were only 11 jurors on the panel because one panel member became ill after the trial started and no alternates had been selected.

The city attorney's office and defense lawyers agreed to proceed with the remaining 11 jurors.

A MISDEMEANOR charge against a fourth defendant, Robert M. Toupin, 30, of North Hollywood, accused of assisting in an act of indecent exposure, was dropped by Judge Mullendore before the case went to the jury.

The defendants were arrested Feb. 4. Since then Conner and other dancers have been cited approximately 40 times.

Sentencing Planned for Truck Firm

A guilty plea to 20 of 40 counts of violation of Federal Motor Carrier Safety regulations has been entered by Dean Van Lines Inc., 18420 S. Santa Fe Ave., United States Attorney Matt Byrne said Friday.

Sentencing will be before U.S. District Judge Francis C. Whelan at 1:30 p.m., Monday, May 19. Assistant U.S. Attorney David P. Curnow, who is handling the case for the government, said the corporation could be fined from $100 to $500 per count.

The information against the corporation noted it was requiring or permitting drivers to drive more than 10 hours without having eight consecutive hours off-duty time.

The U.S. attorney said the corporation was convicted of violations of motor carrier regulations in 1959, 1963 and 1964.

55 Arrested for Narcotics

Fifty-five persons were arrested on narcotics charges Friday at homes and apartments throughout San Bernardino County by sheriff's deputies acting on secret grand jury indictments.

Sheriff Frank Bland said 10,000 doses of dangerous drugs, three pounds of marijuana, small quantities of heroin and narcotics paraphernalia were confiscated.

HE DIDN'T DIE: AWARDED $40,000

A Huntington Park man who almost four years ago had only a year to live Friday gave the doctor who said so a bill — for $40,000.

Donald L. Correll, 49, won a suit against Dr. G. R. Ramage Jr., of South Gate and was awarded damages by a Superior Court jury in Los Angeles.

Correll said when he was warned of impending death, he made funeral arrangements, quit his bus driver's job with the Southern California Rapid Transit District and lost 18 years' seniority and pension rights.

He added he tried to break an engagement to Kathryn Tate, 35, but she refused and now is Mrs. Correll. Correll is a school bus driver.

Historic Tunnel Tree Has Fallen

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP) — After nearly 90 years as a tourist attraction, the world-famed Wawona Tunnel tree has fallen.

Park rangers report snow plow crews working in the Mariposa Grove area at the south end of the park discovered the demise of the 234-foot sequoia redwood.

Rangers believe the tree, estimated 1,500 to 2,000 years old, fell early in the winter and was not noticed because of a heavy snow cover.

Millions of tourists have ridden through the tree since 1881 when a burn scar was enlarged to accommodate stage coaches and later automobiles.

THE TUNNEL through tree was eight feet wide, nine feet high and 26 feet long.

Learys Ask Dismissal of Charges

One-time Harvard University professor Timothy Leary, his wife, Rosemary, and his son, John, asked dismissal Friday of Grand Jury indictments for narcotics possession.

The younger Leary, a 19-year-old former student, surrendered himself to Santa Ana Superior Court Judge James F. Judge to answer the Grand Jury charges accusing him of possessing both marijuana and LSD.

Dr. Leary, 48, and his wife, 33, were arraigned two weeks ago.

Their pleas were delayed until Friday so John could surrender. He was in the East when the indictment was returned.

The Learys were arrested in Laguna Beach Dec. 26. Police said they were in an auto parked in the center of the street with its lights burning.

Each of the Learys is represented by a different attorney, all of whom joined in the dismissal motion. Each is at liberty under bail.

Also in the 11 per cent group is Chief Administrative Officer Linton S. Hollinger. He will go from his present salary of $38,520 to a July 1 figure of $42,876.

THE SUPERVISORS have received a detailed presentation of the proposed pay increases, together with a statement in which Nesvig explains his position.

The county, he reminded the board, makes what is termed a joint salary survey. This shows what a cross-section of workers in private industry in Los Angeles County are getting.

The salary survey this time showed wages have gone up as much as 13 per cent in the last year, and that the average increase ran 5.9 per cent.

"There is," Nesvig stated, "a tight labor market, particularly for technical and professional occupations."

HE LISTED among these, physicians, attorneys, accountants and professional social workers requiring a master's degree. He said:

"It is our considered opinion that these recommended salary adjustments will provide, in each case, a salary or wage equivalent to those prevailing in private industry. They will thereby comply with the intent of the county charter."

The supervisors will have some time to study the salary question. Public hearings on the Nesvig recommendations will open at 2 p.m., Tuesday, May 13, and the board has until the end of the month to adopt its salary ordinance for fiscal 1969-70.

—A statute to bar "the mails, or other facilities of commerce, for the commercial exploitation of a prurient interest in sex through advertising."

Assembly Nixes Fake Whitewalls

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly approved a bill Friday prohibiting the sale of imitation whitewall tires.

By a 44-1 vote, the lower house sent the measure by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, to the Senate.

Foran said cutting a tire to insert white strips or other decorations weakens the tire and makes it a danger on the road.

The bill would not affect tires that come off the assembly line as whitewalls.

tion that police would be called, members of the radical Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) who have occupied the 13-story administration building since Monday, walked out of the building and left the campus to avoid possible arrest.

Within minutes more busloads of helmeted police arrived and stationed themselves all over the campus to the cheers of white students.

Later six college administrators who had locked themselves in two offices of the administration building to protect school records emerged for the first time since Monday. They appeared in good spirits and said although the radicals occupying the building tampered with the fuse boxes, they managed an improvised hook-up that enabled them to watch the Boston-Los Angeles professional basketball playoff game on television Thursday night.

Prof. Lloyd Delaney, who heads the SEEK program, immediately blamed the administration for the fight between the whites and the Negro students, saying "What was an issue between the administration and SEFK is now an issue between white, black and Puerto Rican students."

QUEENS COLLEGE pioneered the SEEK program, admitting 400 disadvantaged ghetto youths even if they could not come up to admission standards. The students have been pressing for greater control over the program, including hiring and firing of the faculty, and have demanded college credit for remedial classes — especially in mathematics and science — designed to bring them up to normal standards.

The violence reportedly was touched off by an interview with Dr. T. Freeman Cope, head of the mathematics department, published in the Thursday edition of the college newspaper. Cope was quoted as saying Negroes had "really no culture and no written language before 1850" and his own experience showed "that all the Negro mathematicians I have known were almost white."

In Dallas, Tex., a group of 34 black students yielded up the office of the president of Southern Methodist University Friday after university officials agreed to continue discussions on the students' demands.

THE MILITANTS had peacefully occupied the office of President Willis Tate for five hours, after vowing they would not leave until their demands were met.

Vice President Thomas E. Broce of SMU told a news conference that a healthy discussion had been held with the black students. "I want to emphasize that we have been clarifying the points in the student demands," he said. "The statement was explored and questions were asked. It was a very constructive and healthy discussion. We feel and the students feel, that we have a better university for it."

During the time the students occupied the president's office, the building had been locked up by university officials.

President Willis M. Tate quit talking with the Negroes after an hour and a half, and other administration officials took over the negotiations.

THERE WERE no disorders inside or outside the administration building. About 1,200 students milled about the building for a short time but this dwindled to about 200, most of them in a festive mood.

In another campus incident, about 75 Brooklyn College students invaded a dean's office and ransacked files while another group tossed smoke bombs in the main library and knocked books from shelves at the school of 20,000 students.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, meanwhile, forecast a taxpayers' revolt against spending for higher education unless university officials clamp down on student violence.

Quiet returned to one of New York's many troubled campuses, Columbia University, when 29 Negro law students left the Law School library after an overnight sit-in.

LEGAL proceedings were pending against 200 students, led by SDS members, who left two Columbia buildings they were occupying after arrest warrants against them were signed. They were demanding greater Negro enrollment at the Ivy League school of 20,000 students.

Abernathy Asks Nixon Assistance

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Rev. Ralph Abernathy called on President Nixon to step into the Charleston hospital strike Friday, and then posted bond and emerged from a week in jail to resume the struggle himself.

"I posted bond because it is crystal clear that the state intends to kill this movement by legal manipulation," Abernathy said. "I reluctantly left jail with the understanding that I will not forsake Charleston and these brave workers."

Abernathy told a news conference he would not go to Columbia, S.C., this morning when President Nixon arrives for a two-hour visit, but he said a small group of demonstrators will be on hand.

ABERNATHY is due in court this morning on the continuation of his Friday hearing.

Circuit Judge Clarence Singleton, who issued the limited picketing order which Abernathy was accused of violating, refused a plea to release him on his own recognizance.

He said other demonstrators he had released had been brought back on second and third violations. "I have no alternative but to conclude that if I continue to release people who have violated the injunction, this emergency will continue," the judge said.

Civil rights leaders said a mass march is planned for Sunday at many points in the state in support of the striking hospital workers.

In another development Friday, Gov. Robert E. McNair broadened the area of Charleston covered by a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew. About 30 persons were arrested Thursday night for violating the curfew.

National Guardsmen and state troopers searched each spectator entering the courtroom for Abernathy's hearing.

THE CIVIL rights leader has spent the last week in jail, and while behind bars wrote President Nixon asking the chief executive for his personal intervention to end the "crisis which exists in South Carolina."

More than 400 Negro workers at the State Medical Hospital and the Charleston County Hospital — the two largest in the city — have been off their jobs for more than a month in a dispute over union representation, pay scales and charges of discrimination.

Abernathy and his Southern Christian Leadership Conference have taken up the cause of the workers, as has Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain founder of SCLC.

NO ENDORSEMENTS

Governors Silent About Safeguard

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Republican governors sideslipped an endorsement of President Nixon's Safeguard ABM plan Friday to avoid making it look like a partisan issue.

But they did ask the President to give the states a greater voice in federal programs dealing with poverty and big city problems.

This action and inaction was announced after the second and final business session of the semi-annual meeting of the Republican Governors Association.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN, chairman of the association, said a day earlier he would like to see the governors adopt a resolution supporting the Administration's ABM proposal. His comment came after Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had defended the plan but said he was not asking the governors conference to endorse it.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, vice chairman of the association, reported on the Friday session and said there was no discussion whatever of an ABM resolution.

"It was my understanding that the vice president did not want a resolution — and rightly so, I believe — because the decision should not be a partisan matter," Shafer said.

EARLIER Reagan told a reporter that he had "evidently misunderstood" Agnew's attitude at the Thursday session.

Like Reagan, Shafer said he personally supported the Administration plan, and said the governors had unanimously approved four resolutions.

One of them asked the President to consider channeling all anti-poverty programs through an executive agency named by the governor of each state and to consider abolishing the regional offices of the federal anti-poverty agency.

A second resolution asked that the governors be consulted in connection with all policy meetings with officials of major cities to insure that "a true federal-state-local partnership will prevail in meeting the urban crisis."

In Dallas, Tex., a group of 34 black students yielded up the office of the president of Southern Methodist University Friday after university officials agreed to continue discussions on the students' demands.

THE MILITANTS had peacefully occupied the office of President Willis Tate for five hours, after vowing they would not leave until their demands were met.

Vice President Thomas E. Broce of SMU told a news conference that a healthy discussion had been held with the black students. "I want to emphasize that we have been clarifying the points in the student demands," he said. "The statement was explored and questions were asked. It was a very constructive and healthy discussion. We feel and the students feel, that we have a better university for it."

During the time the students occupied the president's office, the building had been locked up by university officials.

President Willis M. Tate quit talking with the Negroes after an hour and a half, and other administration officials took over the negotiations.

THERE WERE no disorders inside or outside the administration building. About 1,200 students milled about the building for a short time but this dwindled to about 200, most of them in a festive mood.

In another campus incident, about 75 Brooklyn College students invaded a dean's office and ransacked files while another group tossed smoke bombs in the main library and knocked books from shelves at the school of 20,000 students.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, meanwhile, forecast a taxpayers' revolt against spending for higher education unless university officials clamp down on student violence.

Quiet returned to one of New York's many troubled campuses, Columbia University, when 29 Negro law students left the Law School library after an overnight sit-in.

LEGAL proceedings were pending against 200 students, led by SDS members, who left two Columbia buildings they were occupying after arrest warrants against them were signed. They were demanding greater Negro enrollment at the Ivy League school of 20,000 students.

Abernathy Asks Nixon Assistance

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Rev. Ralph Abernathy called on President Nixon to step into the Charleston hospital strike Friday, and then posted bond and emerged from a week in jail to resume the struggle himself.

"I posted bond because it is crystal clear that the state intends to kill this movement by legal manipulation," Abernathy said. "I reluctantly left jail with the understanding that I will not forsake Charleston and these brave workers."

Abernathy told a news conference he would not go to Columbia, S.C., this morning when President Nixon arrives for a two-hour visit, but he said a small group of demonstrators will be on hand.

ABERNATHY is due in court this morning on the continuation of his Friday hearing.

Circuit Judge Clarence Singletary, who issued the limited picketing order which Abernathy was accused of violating, refused a plea to release him on his own recognizance.

He said other demonstrators he had released had been brought back on second and third violations. "I have no alternative but to conclude that if I continue to release people who have violated the injunction, this emergency will continue," the judge said.

Civil rights leaders said a mass march is planned for Sunday at many points in the state in support of the striking hospital workers.

In another development Friday, Gov. Robert E. McNair broadened the area of Charleston covered by a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew. About 30 persons were arrested Thursday night for violating the curfew.

National Guardsmen and state troopers searched each spectator entering the courtroom for Abernathy's hearing.

THE CIVIL rights leader has spent the last week in jail, and while behind bars wrote President Nixon asking the chief executive for his personal intervention to end the "crisis which exists in South Carolina."

More than 400 Negro workers at the State Medical Hospital and the Charleston County Hospital — the two largest in the city — have been off their jobs for more than a month in a dispute over union representation, pay scales and charges of discrimination.

Abernathy and his Southern Christian Leadership Conference have taken up the cause of the workers, as has Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain founder of SCLC.

NO ENDORSEMENTS Governors Silent About Safeguard

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Republican governors sidestepped an endorsement of President Nixon's Safeguard ABM plan Friday to avoid making it look like a partisan issue.

But they did ask the President to give the states a greater voice in federal programs dealing with poverty and big city problems.

This action and inaction was announced after the second and final business session of the semi-annual meeting of the Republican Governors Association.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN, chairman of the association, said a day earlier he would like to see the governors adopt a resolution supporting the Administration's ABM proposal. His comment came after Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had defended the plan but said he was not asking the governors conference to endorse it.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, vice chairman of the association, reported on the Friday session and said there was no discussion whatever of an ABM resolution.

"It was my understanding that the vice president did not want a resolution — and rightly so, I believe — because the decision should not be a partisan matter," Shafer said.

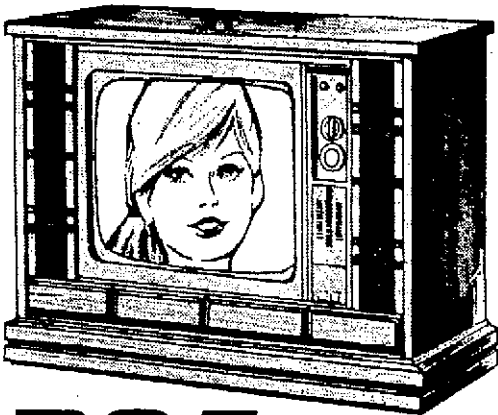

EARLIER Reagan told a reporter that he had "evidently misunderstood" Agnew's attitude at the Thursday session.

Like Reagan, Shafer said he personally supported the Administration plan, and said the governors had unanimously approved four resolutions.

One of them asked the President to consider channeling all anti-poverty programs through an executive agency named by the governor of each state and to consider abolishing the regional offices of the federal anti-poverty agency.

A second resolution asked that the governors be consulted in connection with all policy meetings with officials of major cities to insure that "a true federal-state-local partnership will prevail in meeting the urban crisis."

Psychiatrists Accuse Army of Brainwashing

FORT ORD (UPI) — Prisoners in the San Francisco Presidio Army stockade underwent an experience similar to the "brainwashing" of American soldiers in Chinese prisons, a psychiatrist said Friday.

The effect of the stockade on Pvt. Richard Stevens was to create "a state of temporary mental derangement," said Dr. Samuel Nelken, a San Francisco psychiatrist. He testified at the court-martial of Stevens and 13 other stockade prisoners.

A total of 27 prisoners have been charged with mutiny for holding a singing sit-down strike last Oct. 14 in the stockade yard. The inmates have said they were protesting overcrowding and unsanitary conditions and the fatal shooting of a prisoner a few days earlier.

Nelken said the stockade conditions were similar to the "thought reform universities" where American prisoners were held in China during the Korean war.

The techniques included instilling fear, disorientation of the prisoner, separating him from his friends and confusing him with orders which are changed every day, he said.

Nelken said Stevens did not have the intent to "override" lawful military authority when he participated in the sit-down.

Another San Francisco psychiatrist, Dr. James Lamm, testified in defense of Pvt. Richard Duncan. He said Duncan suffered an emotional disturbance dating from his early childhood and it was aggravated by conditions in the stockade. He described these conditions as "highly tense and chaotic."

ARMY CUTS TWO PRESIDIO TERMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Judge advocate general has ordered a second reduction in prison sentences of two Army privates convicted of mutiny charges after a sit-down protest at the Presidio Stockade in San Francisco.

The Army said Friday sentences imposed on Pyls. Louis S. Oszcepinski, 21, Florida, N.Y., and Lawrence W. Reidel, 20, Medford, Ore., were reduced April 29 to two years.

Oszcepinski originally was sentenced to 16 years, Reidel to 14 years.

On April 25, Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, 6th Army Commander who ordered the mutiny courts-martial for 27 stockade prisoners, had reduced the Oszcepinski and Reidel sentences to five years each.

The further reduction came on review at the Pentagon level.

Some weeks ago, the Army cut a 15-year prison term for another of the 27 to two years.

Health Chief Says VD Out of Control

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The venerable disease gonorrhea is out of control in California and "the problem is that people who get it don't care," the state's public health director said Friday.

Dr. Louis F. Saylor said the number of gonorrhea cases so far this year is well ahead of last year's rate.

HIS REPORT to the State Public Health Board began when Alex A. Roger of Los Angeles, a board member, asked if anything was being done to control "this epidemic of gonorrhea."

Saylor's figures showed 24,745 cases in California reported as of April 26, compared to 21,651 cases during the same period last year.

"It's a sociological phenomenon . . . an exposed population being perfectly willing to be exposed," he said.

HOWEVER, Saylor said the state's war on syphilis, a more serious venereal disease, has been very effective because of an extensive follow-up campaign.

"But to do that with gonorrhea, you'd have to have platoons, regiments" of doctors, Saylor said.

Francisco psychiatrist. He testified at the court-martial of Stevens and 13 other stockade prisoners.

A total of 27 prisoners have been charged with mutiny for holding a singing sit-down strike last Oct. 14 in the stockade yard. The inmates have said they were protesting overcrowding and unsanitary conditions and the fatal shooting of a prisoner a few days earlier.

Marines Say Fugitives Are Deserters

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — Two servicemen given sanctuary in a Whittier church have been declared deserters and fugitives from justice, the Marine Corps said Friday.

The FBI or other civilian authorities have the job of removing the men from the church, but so far nothing has been done, said Lt. Col. Gilbert Ferguson, Camp Pendleton information officer.

Marine Pvt. Jackie L. Lunsford, 20, of Tulsa, Okla., and Navy Hospital Corpsman E. C. Robert Hamberger of Cincinnati, were granted "symbolic sanctuary" in the Whittier Unitarian Church on March 27. They were declared deserters 30 days later.

SOME CHANGES SINCE 1967

Review College Tuition Cost

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's top-level advisory board on higher education will take a new look next week at tuition, with prospects strong for initial action.

Gov. Ronald Reagan's original proposal for tuition in 1967 met opposition among major state educators and strong protests from students and faculty. But tuition, or similar new fees, is winning new respectability this year.

"We've got to get moving somewhere. With the bond issue turned down, we can't sit down and wait," Kenneth Rearwin of La Jolla said Friday in a telephone interview.

REARWIN, finance chairman of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, will propose that his group launch a study of university and state college tuition at its meeting in Los Angeles next week.

He referred to the $250 million education construction bond issue which voters rejected last fall.

Failure of the bond issue and a growing financial squeeze on University of California construction has prompted UC President Charles J. Hitch to suggest "with great reluctance" that tuition or higher fees may be the answer. Hitch opposed tuition in 1967.

THE LEGISLATURE and the governor would have to approve any tuition for the state colleges.

In 1967, state college trustees voted against it and UC regents rejected tuition, although they raised student fees substantially last year.

The coordinating council voted in 1967 to recommend against tuition at that time.

But now the Legislature contains more Republicans and the state's education governing boards have more Reagan appointees. The coordinating council contains a majority of members, including Rearwin, appointed directly or indirectly by Reagan.

Rearwin's suggestion is that the council's staff study tuition and submit any recommendations by July. UC regents plan to discuss student charges more extensively in June.

REAGAN'S original tuition plan called for accompanying aid to needy students. Republican Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan of Tracy — an ex officio regent — has proposed tuition or fees scaled to family income.

"I still feel very much that we shouldn't exclude anybody," Rearwin said.

Post Sees Triple Taxes for Poor in Reagan Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Friday Gov. Reagan's tax-reform proposals would triple the income tax bill of a man earning $5,000 a year or less.

For those earning $10,000 a year or more, Post said, the governor's program would mean a reduction ranging from two per cent to more than 11 per cent.

Post's observations were in a report he prepared for several legislators. It was released by Assembly Republican Floor Leader W. Craig Biddle of Riverside.

BIDDLE has introduced Reagan's tax proposals in the Legislature.

Post admitted his study ran into several obstacles because some figures are not available. He said that, for the most part, he worked from the governor's press release and the skeleton form of the bills.

Reagan's 1967 tax package eliminated personal exemptions in figuring the state income tax and replaced them with tax credits which were subtracted from the tax bill.

By returning to the exemptions, which would be lower than the pre-1967 figures, Post said Californians with incomes of less than $10,000 a year would pay $47.1 million a year more in income taxes.

THOSE MAKING $10,000 or more, he added, would pay $47.1 million less.

The lowest-paid group, those making less than $5,000 a year, would pay an estimated total of $5.9 million under the present Post said, they would pay $17.9 million, based on figures supplied by the Franchise Tax Board.

Reagan also proposes to impose a one per cent tax on adjusted gross income to raise money for schools.

Post said a married man with two children and a $7,500-a-year income would pay $4 under existing law, but would pay $79 under Reagan's proposal.

THOSE WITH adjusted

gross incomes of $5,000 or less pay no tax under present law but would pay up to $50 under the governor's plan, Post said.

Biddle singled out critics who have said the governor's proposals would raise an additional $204 million when he observed that Post's figures show the program about in balance.

"Whatever minor imbalances there are, we'll eliminate," Biddle said.

The governor's proposals will be discussed at length early next week in two Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee hearings.

Wildflowers Deck Southland Fields

Wildflowers, carpeting the Lancaster and Antelope Valley areas with a spectrum of colors, are expected to reach the season's peak of bloom today. Yuccas are in bloom throughout the Southland mountains, and poppies cover the fields in the areas north of Los Angeles.

The Wildflower Information Center at Antelope Valley Fairgrounds will be open through Sunday to assist the public. A helicopter patrol of the wildflower areas has been set up to assist center officials to obtain the most up-to-date information available.

The center is located on Division Street and Avenue 1 in the heart of Lancaster. Sponsored as a free service by the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, the wildflower center features original wildflower paintings, gem and mineral displays, Indian artifacts, sun colored glass and community displays, free wildflower maps and tour guides.

Among the most beautiful of native wildflowers in the Lancaster area are the California poppy, lupin, helia, coreopsis, desert dandelions, phacelia and many other varieties. Visitors may reach the Lancaster Wildflower Center by way of the new Antelope Valley Freeway (State route 14).

PRETTY JOYCE UYEDA, 19-year-old L.A. Trade Tech. College student has been chosen Queen of the Southern California Festival of Flowers. Slated to continue through May 11 at Century City in West Los Angeles. The nonprofit festival is sponsored by Los Angeles Beautiful to provide the public with a showcase on how landscaping and flowers can be used to create a more beautiful urban environment.

Q. I would like to know how to get my carnations to grow as large as those the florist grows. Do you give them any plant food?

A. You can grow carnation blossoms as large as those at the florist if you disbud, snap off all buds but the central bud on each long flower stalk. Yes, fertilize carnations a 6-10-4 formula balanced plant food. Be sure to tie a "twist and tie" around the calyx (the green outer protection of the flower petals) to prevent it from splitting before you cut the blossom.

Q. I once received a very helpful answer from you. Now I need your advice again. We have a block wall around our back yard in front of which we have built a raised bed. It faces north, and so in summer it gets full sun. I just planted petunias, zinnias, marigolds, and ageratum. But in the winter the sun shifts so the bed gets no sun at all. What annual can I plant there this fall for winter bloom in the shade? Also, are there any perennials I could plant that would take the summer sun and then the shade in the winter? (I have hibiscus vines growing up the block wall now).

A. Thank you for those kind comments. Fall annuals which would serve this purpose are Primula malacoides, P. obconica, and Cineraria. The last named plant needs protection from frost and phloxids. Perennials for such a location are Billbergia nutans, hedding Begonia, Cyclamen, Bergenia, and white Calla. Summer mulch them, give them plenty of water and periodic evening showers.

Q. I planted a new lawn of stovers grass seed in March, and ever since it came up I have had dead brown spots. They start small and get larger and larger. I have sprayed with Ortho-Klor 44 chlor-dane, a fungicide, and a spray for bugs and worms in different places. I can't get help from nurseries, so can you help me, please?

A. It is difficult to diagnose your lawn problem due to lack of information on soil, materials worked into the soil if any, and what was done directly after the seeds were sown. Do you live in a neighborhood where dogs roam unleashed long after dark? Please give me more details, or telephone Sterling Bemis of this newspaper and have him give you my phone number. You rarely ever read about Monstera deliciosa, sometimes called Philodendron pertusum, a vining tropical plant that has large leathery-lobed dark green leaves. If and when it blooms it is a showy large white bract that looks somewhat like a white giant calla bloom, with eight-to-10-inch-long, corn-cob-like spadix which is more than an inch thick and covered with very small blossoms. The corn-like seeds that develop after the small blossoms have faded gradually ripen. The inner part of this spadix contains a water color jelly-like fruit that has a delightfully teasing flavor of bananas and pineapple combined.

MONSTERA DELICIOSA... Taste of the Exotic

A dentist friend had one that grew up the middle of a huge oak tree and reached the height of two stories, bloomed annually and produced the tasty fruit. The rope-like long roots grew from along the plant trunk and hung down.

HED TAKE the ripening fruit down to his office and give it to his favored patients. When first we tasted that exotically sweet fruit, we decided to eat it all. After swallowing the third mouthful we couldn't eat another one because it was so cloyingly sweet and very filling.

Frank Rich a well known landscape architect and authority on philodendrons informed us that a mature plant might set fruit one year; bear fruit annually, maybe not for several years, or possibly never again.

The Monstera is listed as standing down to 25 degrees of cold, yet is considered a very tender tropical vine. It should be planted in mostly shade and in a protected area for safety sake. It is grown as a container plant indoors and has been listed as philodendron pertusum in the past.

ONE OF the perennial plants you should consider for containers and in sunny flower beds outdoors is chrysanthemums, nicknamed mums. It comes in various shapes and flower sizes as well as a wide range of colors. You also can have an extended blooming period of flowers of about three months. Some varieties bloom early in the season, other mid-season, fewer late in the year.

One of the mums mum hobbyists wouldn't get excited about is the Primavera mum, a small pom-pom yellow color. It produces two to three distinct blooming crops a year!

Set out a few individual primavera mums here and there in the sunny flower bed, as informal hedge plants edging a driveway, or a walk, edging the patio, and they'll grow up to about 12 inches high but the arching branches spread out about 18 inches. Cut back the branches to within about five inches of the plant bases, feed them, and about three months later they've grown out many branches. The blossoms almost smother them. They're excellent as container plants for the patio, too.

JOBS TO DO NOW

PINCH OUT tops of growing dahlia plants when they're about a foot or so high in order to get more blooms and lower bush. Dahlia roots still may be available at nurseries. Be sure there's an "eye at the end of the top of the root, to insure top growth.

MULCH roses if you didn't do it earlier in the year. "Mulch" means to put inch or so thickness of manure or top dressing material over the soil around the roses a day or so after they have been watered. Slowly water well to settle the organic material.

PLANT NOW for winter color two perennial plants, Bergenia (saxifrage) and Helleborus (lenten rose). Bergenia grow in shade up to half day of sun. Lenten roses need about two hours or so of early morning, or late afternoon sun.

That amount of sun teases the flower stalks to grow above the foot or so tall foliage.

SOW Bachelor buttons seed in two ten-foot garden rows. Cover the sown rows with burlap and keep moist until seedlings grow up through the soil. Take off the cover. Thin out the plants to four inches apart. Scatter effective snail-slug bait to protect young plants from those voracious pests.

Wildflowers Deck Southland Fields

Wildflowers, carpeting the Lancaster and Antelope Valley areas with a spectrum of colors, are expected to reach the season's peak of bloom today. Yuccas are in bloom throughout the Southland mountains, and poppies cover the fields in the areas north of Los Angeles.

The Wildflower Information Center at Antelope Valley Fairgrounds will be open through Sunday to assist the public. A helicopter patrol of the wildflower areas has been set up to assist center officials to obtain the most up-to-date information available.

The center is located on Division Street and Avenue 1 in the heart of Lancaster. Sponsored as a free service by the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, the wildflower center features original wildflower paintings, gem and mineral displays, Indian artifacts, sun colored glass and community displays, free wildflower maps and tour guides.

Among the most beautiful of native wildflowers in the Lancaster area are the California poppy, lupine, helia, coreopsis, desert dandelions, phacelia and many other varieties. Visitors may reach the Lancaster Wildflower Center by way of the new Antelope Valley Freeway (State route 14).

PRETTY JOYCE UYEDA, 19-year-old L.A. Trade Tech. College student has been chosen Queen of the Southern California Festival of Flowers. Slated to continue through May 11 at Century City in West Los Angeles. The nonprofit festival is sponsored by Los Angeles Beautiful to provide the public with a showcase on how landscaping and flowers can be used to create a more beautiful urban environment.

CHINCH BUG THREAT

The warning is out on the threat of chinch bugs.

A year ago chinch bugs became a severe problem in northern Ohio and some were even found in California. They have been reported or suspected in various areas this year.

These bugs are lawn killers.

THE INSECTS are about one-fifth of an inch long and have white patches on their wings, which are folded over their backs. The young are smaller, red, and wingless, measuring one-twentieth of an inch and longer. Both young and adult literally suck the life out of a lawn by feeding on the juice in stems of grass.

The first sign of chinch bug invasion is small brown patches on a lawn which continue to increase in number and size.

Although they are difficult to see, the lawn pests may be observed by parting the grass in areas where the lawn is damaged. A more positive method is to cut both ends off a metal can and insert one end into the ground over the line between healthy and dead grass. Fill the can with water. If chinch bugs are present, they will float to the surface in about five minutes. Don't look for chinch bugs where turf is completely dead because they will be found only on living grass.

ONCE CHINCH bugs have been detected, fast action is needed to control them. During warm weather, they multiply so rapidly that an entire lawn can be destroyed within two weeks. Quick, positive control is required and insecticides offer the best means of combating a chinch bug invasion. Aspon insecticide has been successful in areas where the bug has been a major problem.

Local lawn maintenance experts specialize in pest control problems. They usually are well informed on the latest spray materials and techniques and have the proper application equipment.

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. I would like to know how to get my carnations to grow as large as those the florist grows. Do you give them any plant food?

A. You can grow carnation blossoms as large as those at the florist if you disbud, snap off all buds but the central bud on each long flower stalk. Yes, fertilize carnations a 6-10-4 formula balanced plant food. Be sure to tie a "twist and tie" around the calyx (the green outer protection of the flower petals) to prevent it from splitting before you cut the blossom.

Q. I once received a very helpful answer from you. Now I need your advice again. We have a block wall around our back yard in front of which we have built a raised bed. It faces north, and so in summer it gets full sun. I just planted petunias, zinnias, marigolds, and ageratum. But in the winter the sun shifts so the bed gets no sun at all. What annual can I plant there this fall for winter bloom in the shade? Also, are there any perennials I could plant that would take the summer sun and then the shade in the winter? (I have hibbertia vines growing up the block wall now).

A. Thank you for those kind comments. Fall annuals which would serve this purpose are Primula malacoides, P. obconica, and Cineraria. The last named plant needs protection from frost and pailids. Perennials for such a location are Billbergia nutans, bedding Begonia, Cyclamen, Bergenia, and white Calla. Summer mulch them, give them plenty of water and periodic evening showers.

Q. I planted a new lawn of stovers grass seed in March, and ever since it came up I have had dead brown spots. They start small and get larger and larger. I have sprayed with Ortho-Klor 44 chlor-dane, a fungicide, and a spray for bugs and worms in different places. I can't get help from nurseries, so can you help me, please?

A. It is difficult to diagnose your lawn problem due to lack of information on soil, materials worked into the soil if any, and what was done directly after the seeds were sown. Do you live in a neighborhood where dogs roam unleashed long after dark? Please give me more details, or telephone Sterling Bemis of this newspaper and have him give you my phone number. Phone me about 8 a.m.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

You rarely ever read about Monstera deliciosa, sometimes called Philodendron pertusum, a vining green leaves. If and when tropical plant that has large leathery-lobed dar-it blooms it is a showy large white bract that looks somewhat like a white giant calla bloom, with eight-to-10-inch-long corn-cob-like spadix which is more than an inch thick and covered with very small blossoms. The corn-like seeds that develop after the small blooms have faded gradually ripen. The winter part of this spadix contains a water color jelly-like fruit that has a delightfully teasing flavor of bananas and pineapple combined.

A dentist friend had one that grew up the middle of a huge oak tree and reached the height of two stories, bloomed annually and produced the tasty fruit. The rope-like long roots grew from along the plant trunk and hung down.

Why Can't Movies, TV Recruit on Campuses

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If giant corporations can recruit on the college campus, why not movie and television companies?

Engineers, business majors, even chemists are hired off the campuses of universities across the nation and paid healthy salaries as novices.

SHOW BIZ is not as competitive for students as industry for the excellent reason that it is besieged by actors — with and without diplomas — 12 months a year.

And rare is the college graduate who leaves the campus to star in a movie or television series.

The biggest stars either skipped college altogether or studied a subject other than acting: Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Sean Connery, Sidney Poitier, Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra and all the rest.

One exception — and he's far from a star — is Peter Strauss, a 22-year-old Northwestern senior who will be graduated this June.

He was recruited by David Gersh, son of famed agent Phil Gersh.

Gersh is a courageous man. Most college actors resemble college baseball players — they've got a long way to go to the major leagues.

But young Strauss jumped right into a $1,200-a-week contract to costar with Michael Douglas (son of Kirk) in "Hail, Hero!" for Cinema Center Films. Also in the cast are old pros Arthur Kennedy and Teresa Wright.

Strauss came West against his better judgment.

"I had planned to try the New York theater," he said the other day.

"But Gersh gave me four reasons for coming to Hollywood. Instead: The romance of tramping New York streets in search of a job is a myth; movies are where it's at now; there aren't many roles for a 22-year-old on Broadway; and movies give you more exposure."

Strauss spent last summer vacation in Hollywood talking to producers and casting directors without success.

"My first interview was disastrous," Peter recalled. "Phones were ringing, I was sweating in an Eastern wool suit, I was shaking so much the resume in my hand rattled and the casting director was hard of hearing."

"My first break came when 20th Century-Fox offered me a contract. Then it was Universal. But Gersh said no long-term contracts."

"I WAS ecstatic about a contract because I was starving to death. But Gersh said it was wrong for me and to hold out until a definite picture came along. 'Now I've got a great role in 'Hail, Hero,' and I realize my agent knew what he was doing from the beginning."

THE WIZARD AND THE BEAUTY

Camelot has exploded into life in Long Beach, with the Light Opera's new production which opened Thursday in Concert Hall. This scene in which Merlyn, played by Britt Murry, hovers over the lovely Guenevere—Laura Killingsworth—reflects a moment in the never-never land. The play is directed by James Brittan, Jack Kroesen and Audrey Share. Ed Cotter plays King Arthur and Will Jennings portrays Sir Lancelot.

Johnny Carson Opens Tonight

Johnny Carson appears this weekend at Anaheim's Melodyland Theatre, beginning a five-performance engagement tonight.

The TV personality will present his show at 7 and 10 p.m. tonight, again at 5 and 8:30 Sunday night, closing this return visit to Melodyland with an 8:30 p.m. show Monday.

With Carson on stage will be singer Phyllis McGuire, dancers Bud and Cece Robinson, trumpeter Doc Severinsen, plus the big band sounds of drummer Louis Bellson and his orchestra.

Tickets are still available.

CLEAN GLASS FOR FILMING 'REDIRTIED'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many glass-encased office buildings in Manhattan have egg on their face this week as negotiations remain stalemated in a nine-week-old strike by window washers.

The washers did however make one concession to show business.

They allowed the windows of the new General Motors building on Fifth Avenue to be washed for the filming of a scene for the movie "Cactus Flower."

But the deal stipulated that the panes be redirtied afterward. So strikers and cast joined together for a giant egg tossing contest when the scene was complete.

County Eyes Playhouse

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Appraisers are being hired by the county to determine the value of the Pasadena Playhouse. The cost: $12,000.

The decision came in a 3-2 vote Tuesday of the Board of Supervisors.

The dissenters, Kenneth Hahn and Frank G. Bonelli, argued it would commit the county to buying a "white elephant" which if the county bought it might be in competition with the Music Center.

Why Can't Movies, TV Recruit on Campuses

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If giant corporations can recruit on the college campus, why not movie and television companies?

Engineers, business majors, even chemists are hired off the campuses of universities across the nation and paid healthy salaries as novices.

SHOW BIZ is not as competitive for students as industry for the excellent reason that it is besieged by actors — with and without diplomas — 12 months a year.

And rare is the college graduate who leaves the campus to star in a movie or television series.

The biggest stars either skipped college altogether or studied a subject other than acting: Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Sean Connery, Sidney Poitier, Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra and all the rest.

One exception — and he's far from a star — is Peter Strauss, a 22-year-old Northwestern senior who will be graduated this June.

He was recruited by David Gersh, son of famed agent Phil Gersh.

Gersh is a courageous man. Most college actors resemble college baseball players — they've got a long way to go to the major leagues.

But young Strauss jumped right into a $1,200-a-week contract to costar with Michael Douglas (son of Kirk) in "Hail, Hero!" for Cinema Center Films. Also in the cast are old pros Arthur Kennedy and Teresa Wright.

Strauss came West against his better judgment.

"I had planned to try the New York theater," he said the other day.

"But Gersh gave me four reasons for coming to Hollywood instead: The romance of tramping New York streets in search of a job is a myth; movies are where it's at now; there aren't many roles for a 22-year-old on Broadway; and movies give you more exposure."

Strauss spent last summer vacation in Hollywood talking to producers and casting directors without success.

"My first interview was disastrous," Peter recalled. "Phones were ringing, I was sweating in an Eastern wool suit, I was shaking so much the resume in my hand rattled and the casting director was hard of hearing."

"My first break came when 20th Century-Fox offered me a contract. Then it was Universal. But Gersh said no long-term contracts."

THE WIZARD AND THE BEAUTY

Camelot has exploded into life in Long Beach, with the Light Opera's new production which opened Thursday in Concert Hall. This scene in which Merlyn, played by Britt Murry, hovers over the lovely Guenevere—Laura Killingsworth—reflects a moment in the never-never land. The play is directed by James Brittain, Jack Kroesen and Audrey Share. Ed Cotter plays King Arthur and Will Jennings portrays Sir Lancelot.

Johnny Carson Opens Tonight

Johnny Carson appears this weekend at Anaheim's Melodyland Theatre, beginning a five-performance engagement tonight.

The TV personality will present his show at 7 and 10 p.m. tonight, again at 5 and 8:30 Sunday night,

CLEAN GLASS FOR FILMING 'REDIRTIED'

NEW YORK (AP) — Many glass-encased office buildings in Manhattan have egg on their face this week as negotiations remain stalemated in a nine-week-old strike by window washers.

The washers did however made one concession to show business.

They allowed the windows of the new General Motors building on Fifth Avenue to be washed for the filming of a scene for the movie "Cactus Flower."

But the deal stipulated that the panes be redirtied afterward. So strikers and cast joined together for a giant egg tossing contest when the scene was complete.

$500 MILLION DEMANDED FOR CHURCH INJUSTICES

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK — A gathering of American church leaders Friday urged serious study of a "black manifesto" demanding $500 million in reparations for past injustice to Negroes, and promised early action on it.

But the churchman added that the demand came with such unexpected, last-minute impact that they could not immediately make a "substantive and responsible" decision in response.

At the same time, a spokesman for the manifesto indicated its call for widespread disruption of church agencies to force compliance with its demands would be put off — at least for the time being.

THE DOCUMENT was presented to a meeting of the policy-making general board of the National Council of Churches, which includes 34 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with a total membership of more than 40 million.

Their top leaders are among the 250 members of the board.

Officials of predominantly Negro denominations voiced doubt that the manifesto represented the views of most black people, and questioned the makeup of its originators — last weekend's National Black Economic Development Conference in Detroit.

HOWEVER, by a strong vote, the meeting said it "shares the aspirations of the black people" expressed in the manifesto, urged wide study of it, and asked an executive committee session June 23 to determine an "appropriate course of action" on it.

The church representatives also: —Voiced opposition to the deployment of an anti-ballistic missile ABM system.

—Declared that "exclusively 'pro-Arab' or 'pro-Israel' positions on the Mideast were not 'a worthy objective,' and criticized 'extreme and ultimate claims' to the Holy Land by either side.

—Recommended, in a common stand with U.S. Roman Catholic bishops, that Congress pass new legislation lifting the tax-exempt status on church income derived from business activity not related to religion.

James Forman, a black New York leader who engineered passage of the manifesto in Detroit and who presented it to the meeting here, said there would be no extensive disruptive demonstrations immediately in its behalf, pending response of churches.

"We're in a stage of negotiations that will defer the intensity of further actions," he said.

HERESY OR INNOVATION? 'Christian Whitey' Speaks

A move announced this week by the Pope during the formal Consistory for the creation of 33 new cardinals has a lot of meaning to those concerned with the church's difficult period of transition.

The pontiff announced formation of a theological commission which will, in effect, trace the boundary between heresy and legitimate innovation.

The commission, which was proposed in 1967 by the Synod of Bishops representing the entire church, will bring to Rome theologians of all schools of thought. It was conceived by the bishops as a counterweight to the predominately conservative consultants of the watchdog Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

It will not lay down any catchall guidelines, but will assess each theological presentation which challenges traditional interpretation of doctrine.

WHY CLERGY? asks "The Seminary Spokesman" in the April issue of The Times, publication of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific (Episcopal).

The quality of life, is its answer. "Wherever men have settled in this great country, 'men of God' went with them. Clergy have been supported and respected by citizens who know the dimension of life that is added to any community by organized religion. While governments have had to tax for necessary functions, the Church has gone forward on voluntary giving.

"Would YOU live in a community without a Church? Without clergy? No man or woman who has ever gone to a priest for spiritual guidance in time of crisis will have any doubt on this point."

A NOTED theologian shook up things last week at the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference for the World Council of Churches, held in Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

"One question nags us now: voluntary black separatism or inclusive community," said Rev. Dr. J. Robert Nelson, concluding speaker. "It is terribly difficult for Christian whitey to say a cautionary word to black brother, but visible unity in Christ must be our prior commitment. We are Christians first; people of diverse races second."

This occasioned some warm debate from an advocate of "temporary black separatism."

Dr. Nelson, in Rome on sabbatical leave from his post as Professor of Systematic Theology at Boston University School of Theology, conducted a seminar last fall on prospects for Christian unity, at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome. He was the first Protestant to teach in the 400-year-old Jesuit school.

"YEA" IS the overwhelming verdict on the proposal in a Methodist magazine to put ministerial salaries on the basis of ability, training and experience, rather than by the particular congregation's budget possibilities.

Christian Advocate, where the original article appears, reports an avalanche of agreement.

"A decent salary system might save the Church from collapse," writes a New England pastor. "If the Church doesn't improve its salary system, it will enter the ministry."

Gloria Dei Pastor Retires

Rev. Goodwin T. Olson, pastor for the past eight years at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, 5872 Naples Plaza, preached his last sermon as pastor last week. He has retired after 40 years in the ministry.

During his pastorate, the church constructed a new educational unit and attained self support. Pastor and Mrs. Olson will live in Cypress, and will help in part time visitation and fill-in ministry.

prove its salary system, fewer and fewer men will enter the ministry and more and more men will leave."

A minister's wife endorses the plan for the church at large to assume much of the salary load of a weak congregation. Says a New Jersey minister: "Many many congregations and areas have never had a topnotch ministry."

An equitable, scale "would enable the Church better to fulfill its mission, especially to some of the more difficult and less lucrative appointments," a Midwest minister says. Writes a Southern pastor, whose personal income is $3,500, writes "Let one from the bottom of the salary scale express a hearty thanks." One correspondent suggests that "the number of children in a family" also be taken into consideration.

One voice of disagreement was heard. A Midwestern pastor opposes regional undergirding of salaries, calling it "akin to state support." And he challenges: "What happens to pastor-parish relationships when the parish is no longer directly responsible for either the pastor's presence or support?"

AND NOW Holy Land tours are going ecumenical! A trip scheduled to leave San Diego June 2 has as its leaders Father John R. Portman, chairman of the Ecumenical Commission of the Roman Catholic Diocese, and chairman, department of theology, U. of San Diego; Rev. Heber H. Pitman, pastor of First Christian and president of the San Diego County Council of Churches, and Rabbi Morton J. Cohn of Temple Emanu-El. A three-faith service at the Western Wall, and an audience with Pope Paul VI in Rome are among the highlights.

"A sort of traveling ecumenical dialogue," says Rev. Pitman.

WORKER OF YEAR... Carl Bailey

How Goodwill Changes Lives Told to Churches

As a high school graduate Carl Bailey could get no better job than selling papers on a street corner. He had cerebral palsy. The account of how Goodwill Industries and a state agency helped him to help himself is told in a pamphlet prepared by the local Goodwill for distribution in over 57,000 copies Sunday in 196 churches.

Sixteen of the churches will simultaneously distribute over 800 Goodwill bags to their parishioners as part of the beginning of Goodwill Week, an annual observance.

The pamphlet points out that Goodwill Industries exists only to do what the individual church cannot do for itself in the field of rehabilitation. Without regard to race or creed it provides these services and gainful employment for physically, mentally and socially handicapped people. Last year 625 persons received some type of assistance at the 800

W. Pacific Coast Highway address, with an average employment of 256.

Other events of Goodwill Week include an "appreciation dinner" on Tuesday, and the annual antique sale Friday, by the woman's auxiliary. As the story of Carl Bailey told in the pamphlet reveals, the Goodwill Worker of 1969 married Sonja Hazelwood, Miss Goodwill of 1964, who was in the pressing department at the time of their marriage.

Black Catholic Plea

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A "Black Caucus" of 200 Roman Catholic clergymen voted to ask the church hierarchy to set up a "Negro Catholic Center" somewhere in the United States to handle problems of Negro laymen. The group also called for more Negroes to be appointed bishops. Only one Negro now holds that office in the United States.

$500 MILLION DEMANDED FOR CHURCH INJUSTICES

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK — A gathering of American church leaders Friday urged serious study of a "black manifesto" demanding $500 million in reparations for past injustice to Negroes, and promised early action on it.

But the churchman added that the demand came with such unexpected, last-minute impact that they could not immediately make a "substantive and responsible" decision in response.

At the same time, a spokesman for the manifesto indicated its call for widespread disruption of church agencies to force compliance with its demands would be put off — at least for the time being.

THE DOCUMENT was presented to a meeting of the policy-making general board of the National Council of Churches, which includes 34 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with a total membership of more than 40 million.

Their top leaders are among the 250 members of the board.

Officials of predominantly Negro denominations voiced doubt that the manifesto represented the views of most black people, and questioned the makeup of its originators — last weekend's National Black Economic Development Conference in Detroit.

HOWEVER, by a strong vote, the meeting said it "shares the aspirations of the black people" expressed in the manifesto, urged wide study of it, and asked an executive committee session June 23 to determine an "appropriate course of action" on it.

The church representatives also:

—Voiced opposition to the deployment of an antiballistic missile ABM system.

—Declared that "exclusively 'pro-Arab' or 'pro-Israel' positions on the Mideast were not 'a worthy objective,' and criticized 'extreme and ultimate claims' to the Holy Land by either side.

—Recommended, in a common stand with U.S. Roman Catholic bishops, that Congress pass new legislation lifting the tax-exempt status on church income derived from business activity not related to religion.

James Forman, a black New York leader who engineered passage of the manifesto in Detroit and who presented it to the meeting here, said there would be no extensive disruptive demonstrations immediately in its behalf, pending response of churches.

"We're in a stage of negotiations that will defer the intensity of further actions," he said.

HERESY OR INNOVATION?

'Christian Whitey' Speaks

A move announced this week by the Pope during the formal Consistory for the creation of 33 new cardinals has a lot of meaning to those concerned with the church's difficult period of transition.

The pontiff announced formation of a theological commission which will, in effect, trace the boundary between heresy and legitimate innovation.

The commission, which was proposed in 1967 by the Synod of Bishops representing the entire church, will bring to Rome theologians of all schools of thought. It was conceived by the bishops as a counterweight to the predominately conservative consultants of the watchdog Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

It will not lay down any catchall guidelines, but will assess each theological presentation which challenges traditional interpretation of doctrine.

WHY CLERGY? asks "The Seminary Spokesman" in the April issue of The Times, publication of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific (Episcopal.)

The quality of life, is its answer. "Wherever men have settled in this great country, 'men of God' went with them. Clergy have been supported and respected by citizens who know the dimension of life that is added to any community by organized religion. While governments have had to tax for necessary functions, the Church has gone forward on voluntary giving.

"Would YOU live in a community without a Church? Without clergy? No man or woman who has ever gone to a priest for spiritual guidance in time of crisis will have any doubt on this point."

A NOTED theologian shook up things last week at the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference for the World Council of Churches, held in Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

"One question nags us now: voluntary black separatism or inclusive community," said Rev. Dr. J. Robert Nelson, concluding speaker. "It is terribly difficult for Christian whitey to say a cautionary word to black brother, but visible unity in Christ must be our prior commitment. We are Christians first; people of diverse races second."

This occasioned some warm debate from an advocate of "temporary black separatism."

Dr. Nelson, in Rome on sabbatical leave from his post as Professor of Systematic Theology at Boston University School of Theology, conducted a seminar last fall on prospects for Christian unity, at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome. He was the first Protestant to teach in the 400-year-old Jesuit school.

"YEA" IS the overwhelming verdict on the proposal in a Methodist magazine to put ministerial salaries on the basis of ability, training and experience, rather than by the particular congregation's budget possibilities.

Christian Advocate, where the original article appears, reports an avalanche of agreement.

"A decent salary system might save the Church from collapse," writes a New England pastor ... If the Church doesn't im-

Gloria Dei Pastor Retires

Rev. Goodwin T. Olson, pastor for the past eight years at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, 5872 Naples Plaza, preached his last sermon as pastor last week. He has retired after 40 years in the ministry. During his pastorate, the church constructed a new educational unit and attained self support. Pastor and Mrs. Olson will live in Cypress, and will help in part time visitation and fill-in ministry.

IT WAS MAY, 1894...

1st Baptist Prepares 75th Year Celebration

By LES RODNEY

The 1890 census reported that there were 654 people in Long Beach town and township.

J. C. Alair and his wife, who found no Baptist organization of any kind when they came here, could locate only six other Baptists in that population. The half dozen were invited to the Alair home for prayer meetings. After a while they started a Sunday School, secured the Matthew Pickles Hall at the corner of Locust and First for $5 a month, and on May 20, 1894, the First Baptist Church of Long Beach was formally organized. The first pastor, Rev. S. S. Fisk, was also the head carpenter as ground was broken for the first building on Locust between Third and Fourth streets.

It is 75 years later. First Baptist of Long Beach, one of the most influential Baptist congregations in Southern California, will celebrate the milestone during the week of May 19th to 25th.

THE OLD building at Locust and Fourth got a shaking down during the earthquake of 1933. It was rebuilt and improved, and served until 1950, when the congregation moved into the splendid new church at 10th and Pine. An educational building

Wesleyan Guild Meeting Today

"The Voice of God is Calling" will be the theme of the Wesleyan Service Guild's annual spring rally starting at 2 p.m. today in Los Altos Methodist Church, 5950 E. Willow St. Speakers will include Mrs. Arthur Young, president of the Guild's Long Beach district, and Rev. Melvin Talbert, United Methodist district superintendent. Mrs. Talbert will offer the music and Mrs. David McKeithen, wife of the host pastor, will install the officers.

and one of the city's finest gymnasiums were completed in 1959 at the cost of $400,000. Two years ago, the church purchased a 200 foot frontage on the west side of Pine, across from the church, for additional parking.

Over the years, members of First Baptist have played an important role at the center of the city's life, in industry, education, government and the professions. The church's spiritual impact on the city's tone and style of life has to be incalculable. Its pioneering spirit has been felt in many ways (the oldest Boy Scout troop in Long Beach is Troop 13, at First Baptist... The turning over of facilities on Saturday nights to single adults, mostly widows and widowers, led to a highly successful regular feature... a full time ministry to the Spanish speaking has been widely emulated.)

But perhaps the ultimate tribute to the men and women of Long Beach's First Baptist church lies in the number of other church it spawned through its missionary outreach, which is a continuing central thrust of the church.

Churches which owe their start to First Baptist's efforts include Bethany, Garfield, Immanuel, Trinity, Calvary and Wrigley Heights Baptist of Long Beach; Ocean View and the Beacon Light Mission in San Pedro; South Shores in Laguna and Palos Verdes Baptist Church. First was also partly instrumental in the formation of congregations in Bouquet Canyon, Riverside and Costa Mesa.

IT MAINTAINS an ambitious overseas missionary program, refused to go along with the trend of dropping Sunday evening services and found a strong positive response, maintains a lively youth and sports program, is "home" to many servicemen from other states, and counts more than

1,000 in its all-ages Sunday School.

Asked for the "secret" of the success of a downtown church at a time when downtown churches are reported hurtling throughout the land, Col. Lloyd Vaughan, AF, retired, who heads the 75th Anniversary Committee, paid tribute to the pastor, Rev. Dr. Frank M. Kepner, who came to First Church 12 years ago from the top executive post of the Southern California Baptist Convention, local arm of the American Baptist Convention headquartered in Valley Forge.

"The magnetism of Dr. Kepner's strong preaching is an important part of it," said the lay leader. "Plus the consecrated staff and laymen."

The church, he added, combines "the strength of being firmly Bible-centered in its message, with being completely modern and forward looking in its method and activities."

The anniversary observance will begin with a big family dinner on Wednesday, May 21, to which all former members, wherever they now live, are welcomed. Movies showing phases of the church's history will be shown, and members of 50-year standing will be honored.

A CIVIC Recognition Banquet on Friday the 23rd will feature city and county notables, as well as representatives from other churches, including those originally sponsored by First Baptist. The observance will be climaxed with Sunday services May 25th.

Working on the anniversary committee with Col. Vaughan are Mrs. Raymond Kirkpatrick, Mrs. A. E. Saunders, Mrs. James Stevenson, James Edson, Mrs. Caroline Poteet, Harlan Dodge and Fred Harverson.

As they plan the big doings, they must inevitably think back once in a while to another group of Long Beach Baptist planners, less than a dozen in number, starting from scratch 75 long years ago.

DR. FRANK M. KEPNER, pastor of First Baptist Church, is flanked by Mrs. Raymond Kirkpatrick, historian, and Lloyd Vaughan, leading layman, as they go about the pleasant task of planning observance of the church's 75th anniversary this month.

FOR WORK WITH YOUTH Stars Help Clerics in Compton Show

Top television stars, supported by a cast of 100, will perform in a benefit play Sunday, 3 p.m., in Compton High School to help establish a Compton Christian Encounter Center, designed to communicate with young people, especially those who have been involved with the law.

Lending their talents for the benefit of the interdenominational, non-sectarian, interracial project of the Compton Ministerial Assn. are James Drury of "The Virginian," Herb Jeffries, Charles McGraw, Richard Harwood, and William Vaughan. The Starlight Quintet will join a large choral group of Compton high school students to provide the musical background for the John Mitchum play "The Trumpet Sounds," which is set in pre-Civil War Africa.

Gov. Reagan's representative on community affairs, Robert J. Keyes, will be among civic and governmental notables attending.

"The heart of our program is to confront the criminal element of our youth with the basic principles of Christ as a solution to their problems," explained one of the sponsoring ministers. "This is not a preaching program but a personal approach to the needs of youth on a person-to-person basis of friendship."

The Center, he said, will include a gym and facilities for recreation and physical therapy, and will seek to train young people to in turn go out and reach others. "The Center will also be a cooperative referral service to aid the individual to re-establish his social, family and civic relationships," the minister added.

A board of directors is headed by Rev. Cornelius Gray, who has worked with young Compton people in trouble with the law. Rev. Gray has been threatened by extremists because of his uncompromising stand against violence as a solution for social ills.

Tickets for the play are on sale at Trinity Nazarene Church, 4238 E. Compton Blvd., from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today, and at First Christian Church of Compton, 225 S. Santa Fe Ave. They are $2 for adults, 75 cents for junior and high school students and 25 cents for those of sixth grade or younger. The high school is at 601 S. Acacia Ave.

The Christian Encounter Center, chartered as a tax deductible institution, invites contributions for its work, to Box 4182, Compton 90221.

IT WAS MAY, 1894...

1st Baptist Prepares 75th Year Celebration

By LES RODNEY

The 1890 census reported that there were 654 people in Long Beach town and township.

J. C. Alair and his wife, who found no Baptist organization of any kind when they came here, could locate only six other Baptists in that population. The half dozen were invited to the Alair home for prayer meetings. After a while they started a Sunday School, secured the Matthew Pickles Hall at the corner of Locust and First for $5 a month, and on May 20, 1894, the First Baptist Church of Long Beach was formally organized. The first pastor, Rev. S. S. Fisk, was also the head carpenter as ground was broken for the first building on Locust between Third and Fourth streets.

It is 75 years later. First Baptist of Long Beach, one of the most influential Baptist congregations in Southern California, will celebrate the milestone during the week of May 19th to 25th.

THE OLD building at Locust and Fourth got a shaking down during the earthquake of 1933. It was rebuilt and improved, and served until 1950, when the congregation moved into the splendid new church at 10th and Pine. An educational building and one of the city's finest gymnasiums were completed in 1959 at the cost of $400,000. Two years ago, the church purchased a 200 foot frontage on the west side of Pine, across from the church, for additional parking.

Wesleyan Guild

Meeting Today

"The Voice of God is Calling" will be the theme of the Wesleyan Service Guild's annual spring rally starting at 2 p.m. today in Los Altos Methodist Church, 5950 E. Willow St. Speakers will include Mrs. Arthur Young, president of the Guild's Long Beach district, and Rev. Melvin Talbert, United Methodist district superintendent. Mrs. Talbert will offer the music and Mrs. David McKeithen, wife of the host pastor, will install the officers.

Over the years, members of First Baptist have played an important role at the center of the city's life, in industry, education, government and the professions. The church's spiritual impact on the city's tone and style of life has to be incalculable. Its pioneering spirit has been felt in many ways (the oldest Boy Scout troop in Long Beach is Troop 13, at First Baptist). The turning over of facilities on Saturday nights to single adults, mostly widows and widowers, led to a highly successful regular feature... a full time ministry to the Spanish speaking has been widely emulated.)

But perhaps the ultimate tribute to the men and women of Long Beach's First Baptist church lies in the number of other church it spawned through its missionary outreach, which is a continuing central thrust of the church.

Churches which owe their start to First Baptist's efforts include Bethany, Garfield, Immanuel, Trinity, Calvary and Wesley Heights Baptist of Long Beach; Ocean View and the Beacon Light Mission in San Pedro; South Shores in Laguna and Palos Verdes Baptist Church. First was also partly instrumental in the formation of congregations in Bouquet Canyon, Riverside and Costa Mesa.

IT MAINTAINS an ambitious overseas missionary program, refused to go along with the trend of dropping Sunday evening services and found a strong positive response, maintains a lively youth and sports program, is "home" to many servicemen from other states, and counts more than

1,000 in its all-ages Sunday School.

Asked for the "secret" of the success of a downtown church at a time when downtown churches are reported hurting throughout the land, Col. Lloyd Vaughan, AF, retired, who heads the 75th Anniversary Committee, paid tribute to the pastor, Rev. Dr. Frank M. Kepner, who came to First Church 12 years ago from the top executive post of the Southern California Baptist Convention, local arm of the American Baptist Convention headquartered in Valley Forge.

"The magnetism of Dr. Kepner's strong preaching is an important part of it," said the lay leader. "Plus the consecrated staff and laymen."

The church, he added, combines "the strength of being firmly Bible-centered in its message, with being completely modern and forward looking in its method and activities."

The Worry Habit Can Wreck You

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Worry. A lot? Better shake that habit. It can make a shambles of your health and impede success in life. Worry probably wrecks more happiness and well-being than any other mental habit.

Everywhere you run into worriers. At an airport I was impressed by a group of young men — magnificent physical specimens, all at least 6 feet 6. The check-in clerk told me they were the basketball team of a big university. One of these athletes approached me, saying, "I'd like to shake hands with you." Then, shifting uneasily from one foot to the other, he abruptly asked, "Do you think it's possible to break the worry habit? I've got it pretty bad. I've been a worrier ever since I was a kid. Now here I am in the university, on the basketball team, and doing all right in my studies, but still I worry all the time." I told him I'd send him something I'd written on the subject.

going out of my mind."

So it goes, from youth to old age — worry, the ancient enemy of the human spirit. Well, what can you do about worry?

We all have problems and, of course, must think them through. That is what the mind is for. But worrying is a very different proposition from rational thinking. Worry is fear-thinking. It gnaws ineffectually at the problem without getting anywhere except to make you tense and finally wear you out.

Dr. Charles Mayo, who with his brother, William, developed the great Mayo Clinic, stated, "Worry affects the circulation, the heart, the glands, the whole nervous system, and profoundly affects the health. I have never known a man who died from overwork, but many have died from doubt."

Robert Frost struck the same note: "The reason why worry kills more people than work is that more people worry than work."

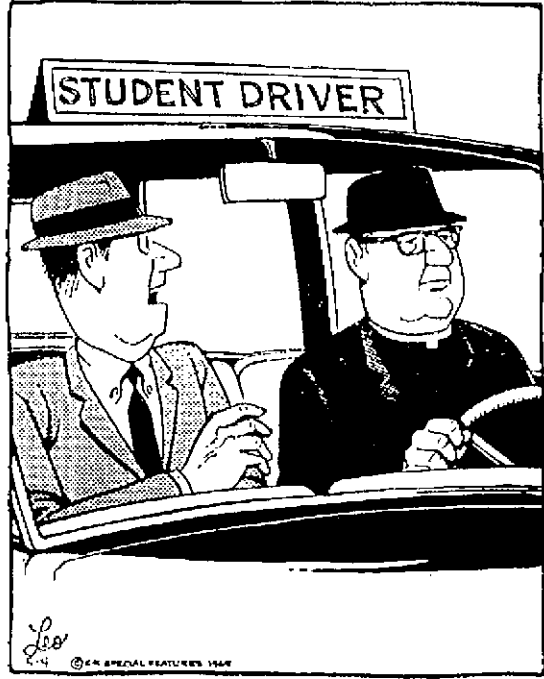

THAT SAME week, during a reception at a convention where I was speaking, a man in his forties confessed, "I seldom get plastered like I am now."

It was obvious he'd had more than one too many. I asked, "Why are you plastered now?"

He looked me in the eye and suddenly seemed old. "Well, I'm in a heck of a fix," he answered. "You see I've been advanced to a higher executive position in my company. But don't congratulate me because I'm not equal to the job. I know I just can't handle it. An believe me, I'm worried sick."

Shortly thereafter I met a woman who sadly complained that she was getting old. "I'm alone in the world. I have friends, but my husband is dead and my children live in other places. I keep thinking, 'What will become of me? Suppose I get sick... Who will take care of me? I lie awake at night worrying until I think I'm

Appreciation for 25 Years of Non-Salaried Chaplaincy

"It has been brought to my attention that Chaplain Fred C. Crumb is completing 25 years of hospital chaplaincy service on May 7, 1969. This is a noteworthy achievement for a remarkable man. . . ."

So begins a letter from Neil McLaughlin, administrator at El Cerrito Hospital, to the Department of Chaplaincy Services at the American Baptist Convention headquarters.

Chaplain Crumb, now in his 10th year at Long Beach General Hospital, is indeed celebrating 25 years next week as a chaplain in county institutions — non-salaried.

A native of Pennfield, N.Y., he began his career at Cook County Hospital in Chicago. He was the first chaplain in Maricopa County, Ariz., institutions, including the city of Phoenix. He came here in 1964 as the founding Protestant chaplain at El Cerrito, then moved to Long Beach General, where lonely oldsters have come to know and love him.

His influence has been felt outside of the hospital walls. In January 1967 he was awarded a lifetime honorary membership in the California Congress of Parents and Teachers on recommendation of the Florence Nightingale PTA, to honor his interest in work being done with children.

CHAPLAIN CRUMB 'Pioneer Zeal'

years scale, he is founder and director for the past 10 years of the Golden Age Fellowship Singers, who meet at First Christian Church, and have won two trophies.

Chaplain Crumb will be remembered for leading the march on City Hall against granting a liquor license to the Sports Arena and the city operated golf course.

Looking back over his varied ministry as chaplain, he says "approximately 90 per cent of all the patients, all the inmates of jails, juvenile halls, etc., had no contact with definite religious ties, and 75 per cent of them never even received any mail!"

The best tribute may be found in the letter to the Baptist headquarters which began this article:

"He helped us through the difficulties of getting under way and was a vital factor in the formation of the Chaplaincy Serving program. He contacted religious leaders in the community and got them involved in special religious programs for the patients. He himself was available to our patients at any time of the day or night. His boundless energy, zeal and contagious enthusiasm had enormous impact. . . ."

VIET EXPERT

Don Luce, former director of International Voluntary Services in Vietnam, who resigned because he "could no longer tolerate the suffering that our good intentions brought to the people of Vietnam," is just back from another trip to that country, and will speak Sunday at the 9 and 11 a.m. services in Bay Shore Community Church, Granada and The Toledo. Between services he will be available to answer questions at a coffee hour. He is co-author of a new book on the non-Communist opposition to the Saigon government, "Vietnam: The Unheard Voices," with a foreword by Sen. Edward Kennedy.

CONFIDENT LIVING

The Worry Habit Can Wreck You

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Worry a lot? Better shake that habit. It can make a shambles of your health and impede success in life. Worry probably wrecks more happiness and well-being than any other mental habit.

Everywhere you run into worriers. At an airport I was impressed by a group of young men — magnificent physical specimens, all at least 6 feet 6. The check-in clerk told me they were the basketball team of a big university. One of these athletes approached me, saying, "I'd like to shake hands with you." Then, shifting uneasily from one foot to the other, he abruptly asked, "Do you think it's possible to break the worry habit? I've got it pretty bad. I've been a worrier ever since I was a kid. Now here I am in the university, on the basketball team, and doing all right in my studies, but still I worry all the time." I told him I'd send him something I'd written on the subject.

THAT SAME week, during a reception at a convention where I was speaking, a man in his forties confessed, "I seldom get plastered like I am now."

It was obvious he'd had more than one too many. I asked, "Why are you plastered now?"

He looked me in the eye and suddenly seemed cold sober. "Well, I'm in a heck of a fix," he answered. "You see I've been advanced to a higher executive position in my company. But don't congratulate me because I'm not equal to the job. I know I just can't handle it. An believe me, I'm worried sick."

Shortly thereafter I met a woman who sadly complained that she was getting old. "I'm alone in the world. I have friends, but my husband is dead and my children live in other places. I keep thinking, 'What will become of me? Suppose I get sick . . . Who will take care of me?' I lie awake at night worrying until I think I'm going out of my mind."

So it goes, from youth to old age — worry, the ancient enemy of the human spirit. Well, what can you do about worry?

We all have problems and, of course, must think them through. That is what the mind is for. But worrying is a very different proposition from rational thinking. Worry is fear-thinking. It gnaws ineffectually at the problem without getting anywhere except to make you tense and finally wear you out.

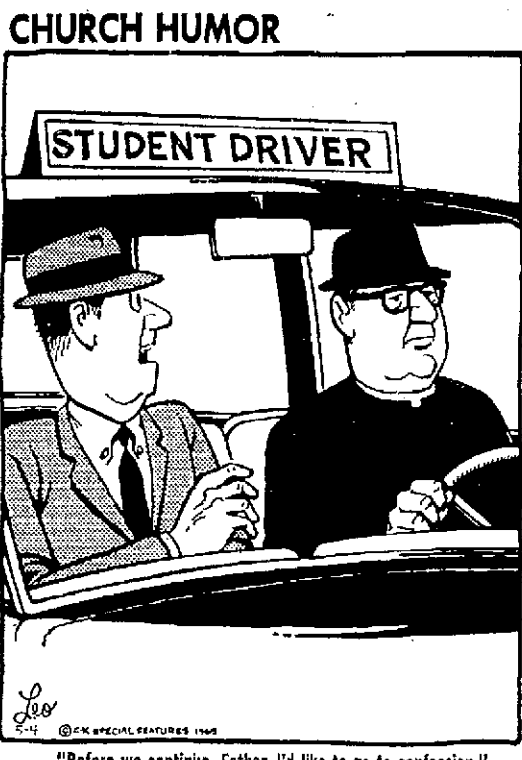

Dr. Charles Mayo, who with his brother, William, developed the great Mayo Clinic, stated, "Worry affects the circulation, the heart, the glands, the whole nervous system, and profoundly affects the health. I have never known a man who died from overwork, but many have died from doubt."

Robert Frost struck the same note: "The reason why worry kills more people than work is that more people worry than work."

THERE IS indeed a close connection between worry and doubt. Doubt the inherent goodness of the Scheme of Things and you will become a sufferer from self-doubt. You will lose a wholesome confidence in your ability to take difficulties in your stride. The simplest remedy for this misery is faith.

So if you are a worrier, by all means get more faith, for as faith grows, worry declines.

(I'll be happy to send you a free copy of "How to Break the Worry Habit." Please write me at Pawling, N.Y. 12564, and enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with your request.)

Appreciation for 25 Years of Non-Salaried Chaplaincy

"It has been brought to my attention that Chaplain Fred C. Crumb is completing 25 years of hospital chaplaincy service on May 7, 1969. This is a noteworthy achievement for a remarkable man. . ."

So begins a letter from Neil McLaughlin, administrator at El Cerrito Hospital, to the Department of Chaplaincy Services at the American Baptist Convention headquarters.

Chaplain Crumb, now in his 10th year at Long Beach General Hospital, is indeed celebrating 25 years next week as a chaplain in county institutions — non-salaried.

A native of Pennfield, N.Y., he began his career at Cook County Hospital in Chicago. He was the first chaplain in Maricopa County, Ariz., institutions, including the city of Phoenix. He came here in 1964 as the founding Protestant chaplain at El Cerrito, then moved to Long Beach General, where lonely oldsters have come to know and love him.

His influence has been felt outside of the hospital walls. In January 1967 he was awarded a lifetime honorary membership in the California Congress of Parents and Teachers on recommendation of the Florence Nightingale PTA, to honor his interest in work being done with children.

On the other end of the

years since, he is founder and director for the past 10 years of the Golden Age Fellowship Singers, who meet at First Christian Church, and have won two trophies.

Chaplain Crumb will be remembered for leading the march on City Hall against granting a liquor license to the Sports Arena and the city operated golf course.

Looking back over his varied ministry as chaplain, he says "approximately 90 per cent of all the patients, all the inmates of jails, juvenile halls, etc., had no contact with definite religious ties, and 75 per cent of them never even received any mail!"

The best tribute may be found in the letter to the Baptist headquarters which began this article:

"He helped us through the difficulties of getting under way and was a vital factor in the formation of the Chaplaincy Service program. He contacted religious leaders in the community and got them involved in special religious programs for the patients. He himself was available to our patients at any time of the day or night. His boundless energy, zeal and contagious enthusiasm had enormous impact. . ."

"During the past quarter century due in no small measure to the efforts of Mr. Crumb . . . the hospital ministry has taken its rightful place in the spectrum of religious services . . . the ministry itself has changed over the years from pre-occupation with strict denominational lines to a recognition of the universality of God . . . there is a fine working relationship with Catholic and Jewish chaplains . . . This example of the true ecumenical spirit is vibrant today in no small measure due to the influence, example and zeal of pioneers like Fred Crumb."

Pentagon Defends Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert H. Charles, retiring soon as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force, Friday conceded that Lockheed Aircraft's position in the stock market "may have been a factor" in concealing a jump in the estimated cost of building the C-5A.

But he heatedly defended the controversial contract as "the best ever entered into by the Air Force ... a hell of a good program."

At another point in a farewell news conference at the Pentagon — asked a second time if he had tried to protect Lockheed's stock market position — he answered, "I would say no."

When the apparent contradiction in answers was pointed out, he said the stock's position was considered "in an extraordinarily minor way."

CONGRESS, the Pentagon and the General Accounting Office are conducting investigations of reports that the plane will cost more than $2 billion more than was originally estimated. A congressional hearing was told this week that the increase was concealed because disclosure of it would have hurt Lockheed's stock market position.

Charles said by law the Defense Department is authorized to take steps to prevent an important contractor from "going down the drain" if the firm is needed for national defense, but that this was not considered in the case of Lockheed.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., asked Securities Exchange Commission Chairman H. R. Budge to investigate "the activities of all government employees in making the purported decision to withhold adverse facts concerning the C-5A transport."

The SEC has already announced plans to study whether investors were denied knowledge possessed by Lockheed.

Charles, who will be replaced by Nixon appointee Philip N. Whittaker in a few days, said that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had read his prepared statement defending the contract and expressed no disagreement. But a spokesman for Laird said immediately afterward that Laird had told Charles only that he had no objection to his making the statement.

CHARLES was accompanied to the news conference by Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans Jr., a Nixon appointee, and was introduced by Laird, who said Charles had made a "very valuable contribution" and had shown "sincerity, dedication and ability" during five years in office.

Charles insisted the Nixon Administration is "inheriting a hell of a good program" in the C-5A, a jet transport capable of carrying 350 soldiers over an ocean.

Seamans avoided disagreeing with Charles, but said his policy will be to assure that the Air Force's monthly contract report "include information on potential cost overruns (excesses)."

ONE CRITICISM leveled at Charles is that information on the C-5A, "overrun" was withheld from such reports from April to October last year.

Charles denied that information on the skyrocketing cost of the big plane had been suppressed. He said the original estimate of increased costs was held back only because it was not considered reliable.

He said when $500 million for inflation and $800 million for spare parts and maintenance is subtracted, the over-estimate amounts to $882 million — not $2 billion plus.

Dirksen Pledges Pentagon Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Friday he will ask Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird to assess responsibility for a series of costly Pentagon decisions.

Two GOP senators have put the blame on civilian officials of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

The Illinois Republican said he had been following a House subcommittee investigation of charges that the cost of the C-5A supertransport rose from $3 billion to more than $5 billion.

Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and George Murphy, R-Calif., both told the Senate Thursday they are concerned about recent attacks on the military establishment, and that blame for such incidents should be put on top civilian Pentagon chiefs of the two Democratic administrations.

"One of the purposes of my making these remarks today," Goldwater said, "is to make amply sure that this boondoggle, which has been going on in the Pentagon for the past eight years, is not pinned onto the tail of the elephant ..."

Puerto Rico Will Request Statehood

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Puerto Rico's Washington spokesman served notice Friday to Congress that "we'll be knocking at your door soon to become a state."

The Caribbean Island's resident commissioner in Washington, Jorge Luis Cordova Diaz, said in Senate testimony: "There is still a substantial minority against statehood" among the 2.7 million Puerto Ricans, but he said most citizens now favor it.

The testimony came at a hearing in which a senator urged that residents of Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands be given the right to vote in U.S. presidential elections.

"RESIDENTS" of the U.S. territories are as much American citizens as the residents of any state," Sen. Quentin N. Burdick, D-N.D., told the Senate constitutional amendments subcommittee.

"They pledge their allegiance and shed their blood for their country, as do the residents of each state ... the rate of combat deaths in Vietnam per population is much higher for both Guam and the Virgin Islands than for any other jurisdiction under the United States flag."

Stennis Questions Safety of Cobra

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said Friday he has asked the Pentagon a series of questions about the safety of the Cobra helicopter, the Army's swift, heavily armed gunship in Vietnam.

Stennis, chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee, said he wanted to know if metal fatigue in the Cobra's tail rotor yoke has caused the helicopter to crash in a number of instances and whether it should be grounded.

In reply to questions from UPI, the Pentagon said only one of seven Cobra accidents in the United States since July 1, 1968, has been traced to a defective yoke. But it said three of the accidents are still under investigation.

The Defense Department said that even under combat conditions the Cobra has not had a higher accident rate than any other aircraft in use in Vietnam.

BUT STENNIS' subcommittee said it was told by the Army that inspections of the yoke of the Cobra have been stepped up and that it has started this month to receive replacements for all the yokes.

The Cobra was first built, at a cost of $300,000 each, in 1966. About 600 are in use in Vietnam.

The Bell Helicopter Co. of Fort Worth, Tex., is the manufacturer of the helicopter and the subcontractors for the rotor assembly hub are the G. and R. Machine Co. of Curdy, Mo. and Crescent Precision Products of Tulsa, Okla.

The subcommittee initiated its inquiries at the instigation of an anonymous tipster at Hunter Army Air Field near Savannah, Ga., who claimed knowledge of more than one crash as a result of defects in the yoke.

The yoke is part of the complex assembly of the tail rotor used to stabilize the helicopter's flight and overcome the torque, or twist, of the main overhead rotors.

Special Delivery Hike Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Winston M. Blount proposed Friday a 50 per cent increase in the minimum charge for special delivery of first-class mail and air mail.

In addition, he suggested other fee increases for registered mail, COD, and return receipts that altogether would bring in an estimated $20 million annually in additional revenue.

The detailed proposal, published Friday in the Federal Register, is subject to possible modification following public comment. It would become effective about July 1.

The proposal calls for raising the special delivery charge for letter mail and air parcel post by 15 cents, with the minimum fee for the service to go from 30 to 45 cents.

Other proposed increases include a 10-cent hike in the special delivery fee for other mail, a straight 10 cent boost in COD fees that now range from 60 cents to $1, and a jump from 10 to 15 cents in the return receipt fee.

Angels Fail to Feast on Expansionists

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

A week ago the idea of a half dozen games with the American League's two expansion outfits, Seattle and Kansas City, looked like a pretty good thing to the Angels.

ANGEL OF DAY

RICK REICHARDT collected five hits and scored three runs in doubleheader loss to Kansas City.

Halos on a two-hitter last Sunday. And Friday night at Anaheim Stadium the start of a four-game series, dreaded Kansas City swept a doubleheader, 9-4 and 3-2.

The Royals bagged the opener thanks to Bob Oliver, a .150 hitter at the start of the evening, who slugged a three-run home run.

And the Royals, who dropped two to the Angels last week in K.C., held on to win the second game.

The most menacing move the Angels made all night was in the sixth round when Vic Davalillo, irked at a high inside fast ball, charged the Royals' pitcher, Dick Drago, bat in hand.

Vic never made it to the mound, a flock of Angels stopping him first. But there was a lot of pushing and shoving and the Big A rocked.

Manager Bill Rigney defended his little centerfielder. "I'm tired of every club coming in here and taking a shot at him. Every pitcher and every club throws at him.

"I'm tired of it and we'll play the same game. It's getting to be a joke. I just wish he'd got there to punch him in the nose."

Steve Jones, with help from bullpen veteran Mo Drabowsky, tripped the Anaheim's in the opener with the Halos chipping in with three errors.

The Royals, who have yet to dip below the .500 mark this season, busted up the opener with a four-run fifth inning.

'D HATE NOT TO PLAY,' BUT ... West Doubtful—So Are Lakers

By DOUG IVES Staff Writer BOSTON — If Laker partisans want to clutch at straws, Jerry West offered one here Friday when he worked out lightly on his injured left leg. The last time West pulled a hamstring muscle, in late January, he was unable to walk the first day, and it was so sore he could not sleep comfortably. "I had no trouble walk-

PLAYOFF SCHEDULE

Remainder Games Today — Lakers at Boston, 2 p.m. Monday — Boston at Lakers, if necessary, 7 p.m.

ABC-TV, channel 7, will air the game live beginning at 2 p.m. (PDT). While West's words were encouraging, he pointed out that there is no way he can maneuver normally. "Right now, I'd say I'm questionable for today," West said. "I mean I'm doubtful without injecting medication into the wound. If that is done, I'm sure I can play some."

West and Laker coach Bill van Breda Kolff must weigh the odds of holding Jerry out today in hopes the rest will make him more effective for Monday's seventh game if necessary at the Forum.

At this juncture, both would rather concentrate on today's game. "I'd hate not to play," said West. "It's possible I could play four or five-minute stretches and still be effective."

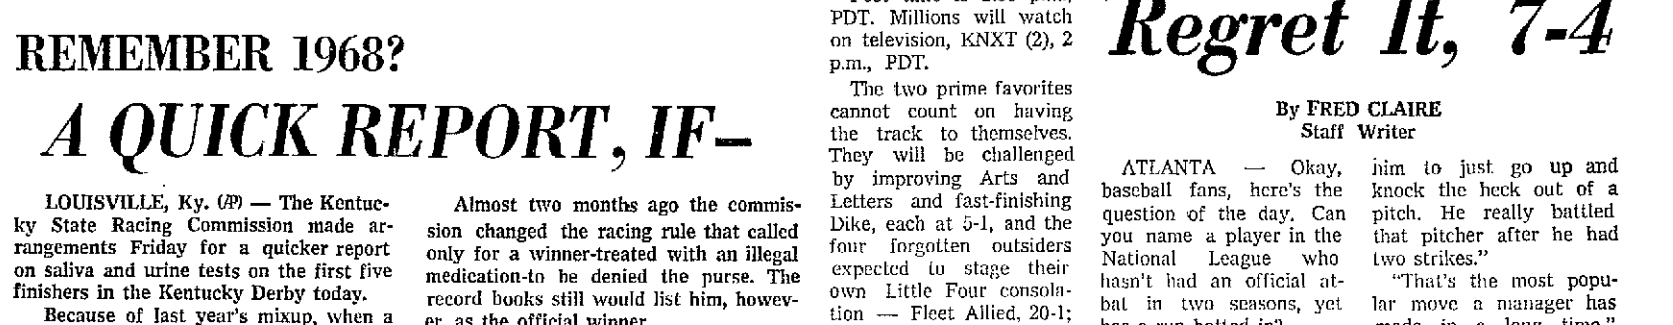

West isn't the only Laker in sick bay. Tommy Hawkins missed the workout because of a sprained ankle, and Wilt Chamberlain's eye injury remains a source of concern. "It's still swollen and it still hurts," said the big man, "but I'm sure it will be okay by game time."

West thinks the Lakers can win without him "if our defense holds up." He says, "We have players who can pick up the slack on offense, especially Elgin Baylor."

In five games West has averaged 39.7 points and accounted for 54.4 points, if you add assists. That his teammates could make up this deficit is wishful thinking on Jerry's part.

REMEMBER 1968? A QUICK REPORT, IF—

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky State Racing Commission made arrangements Friday for a quicker report on saliva and urine tests on the first five finishers in the Kentucky Derby today.

Because of last year's mixup, when a chemist's report finding phenylbutazone in the winner's urine sample was not announced until three days after the race, the commission promised to have all results available this year on Sunday, the day after the race.

The new arrangement is one in a series of steps taken by the commission to prevent a recurrence of the criticism that followed the purse disqualification of Daner's Image.

Almost two months ago the commission changed the racing rule that called only for a winner-treated with an illegal medication to be denied the purse. The record books still would list him, however, as the official winner.

The commission amended that rule to completely disqualify any such horse and place him last.

Later, the commission decided to test the first five finishers in the Derby, plus another horse selected at random, instead of last year's tests only on the winner and one horse drawn by lot. In last year's case the other horse was Kentucky Sherry.

Trojans Favored to Run UCLA Off Track Today

By JOHN DIXON Staff Writer USC's victory hopes rest on domination of the races. The Trojans should win every one except the 440, which UCLA could sweep. The relays rate even.

"We are the underdogs, but we won't concede," insists UCLA coach Jim Bush. "We've got to breakup USC's likely domination of the 880, mile and two-mile to have a chance for an upset." Bush indicated that he will move his super soph,

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A wave of new support for Top Knight and growing skepticism of the prowess of unbeaten Majestic Prince portended a co-favorite role for these racing gladiators from opposite ends of the continent today in the .95th Kentucky Derby.

On the eve of the big race, California's Majestic Prince was first choice at 6-5 with Florida's Top Knight at 9-5 in the small eight-horse field, but the gap was diminishing. Top Knight might be favored at the bugle call.

Affairs of state stand still momentarily as President Nixon and 26 Republican governors plus other national figures join the sellout crowd of 100,000 for the two minutes of high drama over 1¼ miles of the old red sod of Churchill Downs.

Nixon is the first U.S. chief executive ever to see a Derby and the first president since Rutherford B. Hayes in 1879 to attend a major horse race.

Post time is 2:30 p.m., PDT. Millions will watch on television, KNXT (2), 2 p.m., PDT.

The two prime favorites cannot count on having the track to themselves. They will be challenged by improving Arts and Letters and fast-finishing Dike, each at 3-1, and the four forgotten outsiders expected to stage their own Little Four consolation — Fleet Allied, 20-1; Traffic Mark, 30-1; Ocean Roar and Rae Jet, each 50-1.

ATLANTA — Okay, baseball fans, here's the question of the day. Can you name a player in the National League who hasn't had an official at-bat in two seasons, yet has a run batted in?

If your answer is Richardo A. J. Carty, or if you just penciled in "Rico," you can go to the head of the class.

Carty, sidelined last year by tuberculosis and this spring by a sore right shoulder, returned to Atlanta's lineup in spectacular fashion Friday night as the Braves beat the Dodgers 7-4 and created a three-way tie for first place in the West Division of the National League.

The Braves were trailing the Dodgers 4-3 in the bottom of the sixth and had the bases loaded when Carty was sent to the plate to pinch hit for pitcher Pat Jarvis.

The crowd of 18,476 gave Carty a standing ovation. He had the Braves fans standing again when he hit a long fly to rightfielder Andy Kosco to bring home the tying run.

"I was going to send up Tommie Aaron or Carty to hit, and I figured this was the time for Rico to return," said Atlanta manager Lum Harris. "I told him to just go up and knock the heck out of a pitch. He really battled that pitcher after he had two strikes."

"That's the most popular move a manager has made in a long time,"

DODGER OF DAY TOM HALLER had three hits, including his third home run, as Dodgers lost to Braves 7-4.

Braves vice president Paul Richard said to Harris.

Carty, 29, was stricken with tuberculosis during spring training of 1967. He was hospitalized on March 27 and was released 103 days later on Sept. 6.

He reported to the Braves' camp this spring and had regained his job in leftfield when he suffered a sore shoulder two days before the start of the season and was placed on the disabled list.

The Braves broke the 4-4 tie created by Carty's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning an Orlando Cepeda's two-run double, his fifth game winning hit for the Braves.

The Braves got two runners on base without a hit in the seventh when Felix Millan was struck by a Pete Mikkelsen pitch while attempting to bunt and Hank Aaron reached first on an error by third baseman Bill Sudakis.

Cepeda then teed off on a low pitch by Mikkelsen and sent it to center for a two-run double.

With the addition of Cepeda from St. Louis, and Carty's return, the Braves offer an awesome lineup to opposing pitchers.

"When Rico gets back we'll have some sort of lineup," said Cepeda.

"This race is going to be something between the

Lancers, Rams Maintain Tie; Poly Streaking

Form held true in the tight Moore League baseball race Friday as the top three clubs won to set the stage for what should be a hectic wrap-up.

Lakewood and Millikan improved their records to 10-3 with two games to go, while Poly won its fifth game in a row to keep alive its playoff hopes.

The host Lancers had to push across a run in the ninth inning to edge stubborn Jordan, 2-1; Millikan blanked El Rancho, 8-0; and Poly shut out Wilson, 2-0.

It was the second time this week Lakewood had gone extra innings.

Nike Rae opened the ninth with a walk, went all the way to third on a fielder's choice, and scored on Bob Arvizu's infield single to win the game.

Hits were at a premium — four for each side. Mike Ruddell won his 10th game of the season, pitching the last three innings in relief.

Jordan had the bases loaded in the ninth with two outs before Ruddell fanned Chris Hyta.

Russ Caldarella had three hits, scored three runs, stole two bases and Dave Chorley hit a home run to pace Millikan to its easy win over El Rancho in the first game at Blair Field.

The only runs Millikan needed came in the first. With one out, Caldarella singled to left and Chorley homered over the leftfield wall.

Bill Schwarz spaced two hits over five innings to get the win.

Ed Anderson allowed eight hits but walked only one batter and got great fielding support to blank Wilson in the second game.

The Bruins had runners on base in every inning, but all came with two outs.

Gordon Hartstein's single scored Jerry Mantlo in the second, and Mantlo singled home Willie Moore who had led off with a triple in the sixth for the other run.

Bruin Jeff Burroughs continued to impress all the scouts who are following his progress.

The following Friday night included Angels' director of player personnel and coach Lefty Phillips, who saw Burroughs go 3-for-3 and raise his season average to .623 (33-for-53).

Bishop Amat Wins Title in Angelus

Mater Dei won seven of 15 varsity events, but Bishop Amat won the overall title with 122 1/2 points Friday night in the Angelus League track finals at St. Paul High.

Mater Dei finished with 106 points in the scoring, which added the standings of the Bee and Cee divisions to the varsity.

Kent Eckholdt was the only winner for St. Anthony with a mark of 13 feet six inches in the pole vault. Teammate Rich Carlson placed second at 12-6. Eckholdt's mark equaled his city best.

Paul Muldoon of Mater Dei was a double winner. Muldoon won the 440 in 51.8, set a league record in winning the 880 in 1:57.3, and gave Mater Dei the deciding edge in the mile relay over the Saints.

Saints Joe Henderson and Dan Meylor finished second and third behind Muldoon in the 880.

Market Headlines Feature

Eleven of the West's best sprinters including defending champion Rising Market tangle in the 17th renewal of the $50,000-added Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park today.

Included in the field against Mr. and Mrs. Bert W. Martin's 5-year-old speedster were Indulto, which conquered Rising Market in the $28,150 Premiere Handicap on opening day at Hollywood Park this year.

Also entered were Dewan, First Mate, Key Rula, Title Game, Broad Shadows, Terresto, Hall To Racing and Nasrullah Spy.

Rising Market will be ridden by Howard Grant and carry the top weight of 124 pounds while Indulto has been assigned 122. Don Pierce will be up on Indulto.

The boycott of racing at Aqueduct will continue at least through today.

Some 400 owners and trainers voted unanimously Friday to extend the boycott. All are members of the New York chapter of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Assn.

The entry box for Monday will close at noon today instead of the usual 5 p.m. closing time.

A pension dispute was resulted in the track on Long Island being idle for a week.

The shutdown has cost the state about $2.5 million in revenue.

Steve Brooks, 46-year-old jockey who suffered a leg fracture 22 months ago, made a winning comeback at Garden State Park Friday when he guided Pitch to victory in the third race.

It was the 4,126th triumph of Brooks' riding career. He is in fourth place among the all-time riders in the number of victories. His mounts have won more than $18 million.

When Brooks returned to the locker room he was doused with a pail of cold water by fellow jockey Eugene Monacelli. It is the traditional greeting given an apprentice who wins his first race.

Garden State's Delaware Valley Handicap drew so many 3-year-olds that it was split into two $20,000 events of 6 furlongs. Of the nine in the first half, Don's Imp, 119, is the probable favorite, although Prevailing, 121, will be carrying top weight.

In the wide open second half, Night Invader, 112, Blade, 115, Tyrant, 114, and Peabody, 116, are due to get strong support among the eight named.

Singing Rain and Miss Spin, each at 116, are the highweights in the field of seven for the 11-16 mile Gallotette Handicap, a $30,000-added event for fillies and mares at Pimlico.

In the $30,000 Golden Gate Handicap at Golden Gate Fields, a 1-16-mile test, Cavanaugh, 122, and Glory Hallelujah, 121, head a field of nine.

market was poised rally—and it did," an analyst said of the stock market's bullish charge last week to some of the best showings in about a year.

The market had been showing strength for weeks," said Larry Wachel of Bache & Co. vice president, "and impressive investors with its ability in the face of massive waves of bad news. By showing resistance to downside pressure once again this week, the market was able to turn around and break out."

The pressure Wachtel came Monday the market dipped as investors grew uneasy and took to the streets to see what effect the resignation of Charles de Gaulle as French president might have. The effect was negligible, and the market, aflamming about a bit, and its small early loss, and closed slightly higher.

"The market," Wachtel "once again demonstrated its ability to withstand unsettling news and to hold little inclination to buckle."

Expressed by the marketplace, investment, jumped back into the market in the following day, it soared to a strong rally.

The market really took off following day in one analyst deemed as a "sort of buy panic in which the institutions with big pools of cash the small investor got back into the market for fear of being left out of what may prove to be a lasting rally."

The surge was a continuation of Tuesday's good performance and was sparked by reports in Wall Street of possible progress in the Vietnam peace talks.

Despite the apparent confidence provided by the renewed peace hopes, Wachtel feels "the market would have moved sharply either, with or without" the hopes "based on a real sense of inflationary psychology; a convincing performance by the market in resisting downside pressure, and the possibility of a shallow economic response to the dosage of fiscal and monetary restraint already administered.

Jack Paar View of Kenya Scores

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

If Jack Paar is not as deep as a well — a self-assessment he has voiced on the air on occasion — there is a depth to him that makes his rare TV appearances these days something that stands out on the tube.

His special Thursday night on Ch. 4 was a travel record of his visit to Kenya with his wife and daughter.

But a travelogue with Paar is something more than a record of things seen. It is a record of camera impressions that imprinted themselves on Paar's consciousness. And, whatever his limitations, he is a "conscious" performer, has an amusing touch and a penchant for seeking out the "out of the ordinary." While this focus on the quaint may be an awareness of whatever limitations he has put on himself, it is an interesting excursion not without humor and intelligence.

PAAR NOT only delights in the quaint, he has a basic honesty and amusement in the absurd.

He notes with some relish that the Kenya police do not carry guns and that "Bonanza" was banned from Kenya TV as too violent, while at the same time noting that there is slaughter of Africans by Africans. He notes that "pol" is outlawed, but visits a pigmy group that seems to be oblivious of such governmental regulations. He shows Africans fixing their hair and comments that he has yet to see in Africa (he has made six visits) hair arrangements such as are affected by some blacks in the U.S. who have a consciousness of their African heritage.

For what it was, it was an amusing show full of high spirited good humor and an obvious picture of Paar enjoying himself in a land and with people he seems genuinely interested in.

ADMITTEDLY focusing on the "out of the ordinary" and the quaint, the show is marked by a lack of pretentiousness, although there is in this insistence a pretentiousness which mars what is, for the most part, a hugely enjoyable show. Not interviewing "important" people can be a form of pretentiousness, too.

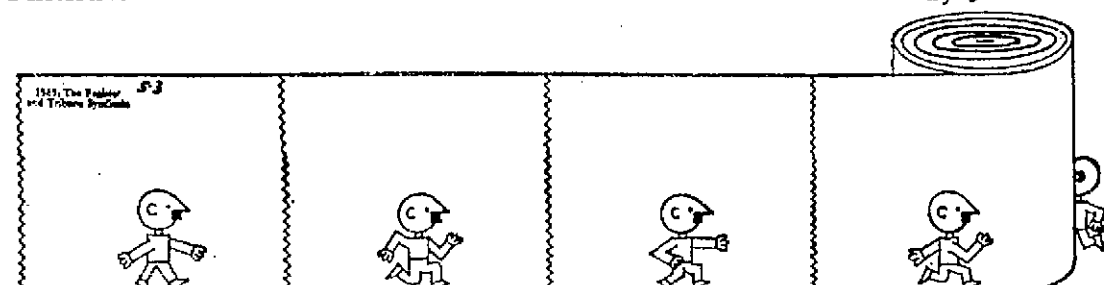

While, as I said, I enjoyed most of the show, there were some irritating lapses of taste. The notation about his wife mistaking the rear of an elephant for the front and expressing the hope she never tries to kiss an elephant, seemed a hangover from infantile gags — as were the credits "written by you know who" and "travel arrangements by cash." And worst of all that old chestnut of the year of an elephant with the sign-off, "The End."

'Slow Guillotine' Slated —Also as TV Special

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

The bald eagle is rapidly becoming extinct but you really shouldn't worry too much.

You may be next! "If no corrective action is taken," says Harold Koenig, of Ecological Sciences Corporation, "most of our urban centers will be unlivable before the year 2000."

KOENIG IS ONE of an impressive lineup of scientists, ecologists and public officials who endeavor to warn the public of pollution's creeping menace in "The Slow Guillotine," a special—in dying color—due at 6:30 p.m., next Saturday, on KNBC, Channel 4.

The special focuses directly on Los Angeles and its environs but makes it painfully clear that the Southland isn't the only place in the nation with air pollution problems. In fact, Los Angeles—which has been recognized as "smog's home town"—is no longer the air pollution capital of the nation.

"New York," host Jack Lemmon proclaims at one point in the special, "has the Mels, the country's tallest buildings—and the filthiest air in the United States."

The problems of air pollution are aired graphically by some men who possess a wealth of information on the subject.

"We're lucky if we have 25 years to clean this up," says Louis P. Fuller, director of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District for more than a decade. At another point in the program he expresses the fear that there "could be a loss of life here (in the Southland) due to air pollution."

"I've tried to halt the death of trees," says Dr. Paul Miller, a U.S. Forest Service plant pathologist working in the Arrowhead area, adding: "Sometimes I feel more like a plant pathologist than a plant pathologist."

Smog's battle with humans was only part of the war sketched in the special assembled by producer-writer Don Widener. The farmer is feeling the effects of smog as much in his fields as in his eyes and lungs.

WIDENER'S camera crews visited a dozen American cities and paused in Detroit long enough to receive disclaimers from the American auto industry.

The program isn't all dire prediction of doom awaiting man, however. There are some hopeful signs on the horizon such as William Lear's efforts to produce a steam car and a product to be forthcoming from Millon Farber's Antipol Corp. The latter, a certain eye-opener, could be the show's biggest "news story" and one that will logically have to follow its presentation a week from today.

If you're resigned to pollution and feel there's nothing that can be done, better look in on "The Slow Guillotine." It tells, in no uncertain terms, what must be done. Up until now, as Jack Lemmon explains, air pollution controls have been a lot like "trying to bail out the Titanic with a shot glass."

Leave It To Larry By LARRY MEDER HARBOR CHEVROLET

Earl Slack, owner of Sileo's, tells of the young lady of eleven whose father was a very prominent owner of a huge racing stable. So proficient did she become at riding, she persuaded her Dad to let her take over the exercise-boy's duties.

She dearly loved a horse called "Blaze of Glory" — whose name was not too accurate a description of his recent performances. Last Wednesday, as she was about to take "Ol' Blaze" out for his morning workout, her father stepped out of the barn and informed her he'd be out there with a stop-watch, and if the nag didn't show improvement, he'd have him pulling a milk wagon the very next day.

In a frantic effort to save off the dear horse's ignominious future, she "went to the whip" as they approached the far turn looking around at the young lady, "Ol' Blaze" said, "Easy with that whip, Honey — I'll hafta be up early tomorrow morning!"

Folks, you too will hafta get up early in the morning to beat my deal during our May - June Campaign!

If Jack Paar is not as deep as a well — a self-assessment he has voiced on the air on occasion — there is a depth to him that makes his rare TV appearances these days something that stands out on the tube.

His special Thursday night on Ch. 4 was a travel record of his visit to Kenya with his wife and daughter.

But a travelogue with Paar is something more than a record of things seen. It is a record of camera impressions that imprinted themselves on Paar's consciousness. And, whatever his limitations, he is a "conscious" performer, has an amusing touch and a penchant for seeking out the "out of the ordinary." While this focus on the quaint may be an awareness of whatever limitations he has put on himself, it is an interesting excursion not without humor and intelligence.

PAAR NOT only delights in the quaint, he has a basic honesty and amusement in the absurd.

He notes with some relish that the Kenya police do not carry guns and that "Bonanza" was banned from Kenya TV as too violent, while at the same time noting that there is slaughter of Africans by Africans. He notes that "pot" is outlawed, but visits a pigmy group that seems to be oblivious of such governmental regulations. He shows Africans fixing their hair and comments that he has yet to see in Africa (he has made six visits) hair arrangements such as are affected by some blacks in the U.S. who have a consciousness of their African heritage.

For what it was, it was an amusing show full of high spirited good humor and an obvious picture of Paar enjoying himself in a land and with people he seems genuinely interested in.

ADMITTEDLY focusing on the "out of the ordinary" and the quaint, the show is marked by a lack of pretentiousness, although there is in this insistence a pretentiousness which mars what is, for the most part, a hugely enjoyable show. Not interviewing "important" people can be a form of pretentiousness, too.

While, as I said, I enjoyed most of the show, there were some irritating lapses of taste. The notation about his wife mistaking the rear of an elephant for the front and expressing the hope she never tries to kiss an elephant, seemed a hangover from infantile gags — as were the credits "written by you know who" and "travel arrangements by cash." And worst of all that old chestnut of the rear of an elephant with the sign-off, "The End."

'Slow Guillotine' Slated —Also as TV Special

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

The bald eagle is rapidly becoming extinct but you really shouldn't worry too much.

You may be next! "If no corrective action is taken," says Harold Koenig, of Ecological Sciences Corporation, "most of our urban centers will be unlivable before the year 2000."

KOENIG IS ONE of an impressive lineup of scientists, ecologists and public officials who endeavor to warn the public of pollution's creeping menace in "The Slow Guillotine," a special—in dying color—due at 6:30 p.m., next Saturday, on KNBC, Channel 4.

The special focuses directly on Los Angeles and its environs but makes it painfully clear that the Southland isn't the only place in the nation with air pollution problems. In fact, Los Angeles—which has been recognized as "smog's home town"—is no longer the air pollution capital of the nation.

"New York," host Jack Lemmon proclaims at one point in the special, "has the Mets, the country's tallest buildings—and the filthiest air in the United States."

The problems of air pollution are aired graphically by some men who possess a wealth of information on the subject.

"We're lucky if we have 25 years to clean this up," says Louis P. Fuller, director of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District for more than a decade. At another point in the program he expresses the fear that there "could be a loss of life here (in the Southland) due to air pollution."

"I've tried to halt the death of trees," says Dr. Paul Miller, a U.S. Forest Service plant pathologist working in the Arrowhead area, adding: "Sometimes I feel more like a plant mortician than a plant pathologist."

Smog's battle with humans was only part of the war sketched in the special assembled by producer-writer Don Widener. The farmer is feeling the effects of smog as much in his fields as in his eyes and lungs.

WIDENER'S camera crews visited a dozen American cities and paused in Detroit long enough to receive disclaimers from the American auto industry.

The program isn't all dire prediction of doom awaiting man, however. There are some hopeful signs on the horizon such as William Lear's efforts to produce a steam car and a product to be forthcoming from Milton Farber's Antipol Corp. The latter, a certain eye-opener, could be the show's biggest "news story" and one that will logically have to follow its presentation a week from today.

If you're resigned to pollution and feel there's nothing that can be done, better look in on "The Slow Guillotine." It tells, in no uncertain terms, what must be done. Up until now, as Jack Lemmon explains, air pollution controls have been a lot like "trying to bail out the Titanic with a shot glass."

Leave It To Larry By LARRY MEDER HARBOR CHEVROLET

Earl Slack, owner of Sileo's, tells of the young lady of eleven whose father was a very prominent owner of a huge racing stable. So proficient did she become at riding, she persuaded her Dad to allow her to take over the exercise-boy's duties.

She dearly loved a horse called "Blaze of Glory" whose name was not too accurate a description of his recent performances. Last Wednesday, as she was about to take "Ol' Blaze" out for his morning workout, her father stepped out of the barn and informed her he'd be out there with a stop-watch, and if the nag didn't show improvement, he'd have him pulling a milk wagon the very next day.

In a frantic effort to save off the dear horse's ignominious future, she "went to the whip" as they approached the far turn! Looking around at the young lady, "Ol' Blaze" said, "Easy with that whip, Honey - I'll hafta be up early tomorrow morning!!!"

Folks, you too will hafta get up early in the morning to beat my deal during our May - June Campaign!

Carson Gets $8 Million Building Permits in April

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

A month-old building boom is under way in the Carson area, with the county issuing permits for construction worth $8,077,198.

Permits for both city and unincorporated territory contrasted sharply with the building and safety division's report for March. The figure then was slightly more than $1.5 million.

In terms of percentages the increase was the most impressive of any community in the Long Beach area served by the division.

Big gains were registered also by Lakewood and Cerritos.

For Lakewood the figures were $2,314,780 for April, $1,379,920 for March. Cerritos showed, respectively, $5,134,350 and $2,499,500.

Only two nearby communities showed a decline in building permit values covered in the same months. Hawaiian Gardens, incorporated and unincorporated, had $177,385 in April, down from $247,940 in March; and Rolling Hills registered $67,500 last month, down from $117,125.

Court Halts Compton Vote Endorsements

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer issued a temporary restraining order Friday barring further distribution of an endorsement by Rep. Augustus Hawkins of three candidates in Tuesday's Compton municipal election.

The order was issued after Robert Moseley, former Compton-Willowbrook Enterprise Community Action Agency employee, filed suit against the agency, Hawkins, the three candidates and various officials of the organization.

A HEARING on Moseley's suit, which charges the endorsement and "partisan political" activities by the CWECAA violated the federal Hatch Act, will be held May 12 in Department 65 of Los Angeles Superior Court.

In addition to Hawkins, Moseley named Llewellyn Williams, Leroy Hayes, Harvey Howard, Douglas Dollarhide, Lionel Cade and Esther Jackson as defendants.

Dollarhide is running for mayor, Cade for councilman and Mrs. Jackson for city clerk in the Tuesday election.

WILLIAMS IS on CWECAA's board of directors, Hayes is the agency's executive director and Howard is manpower project director.

At a press conference Friday, Moseley said, he possesses sworn affidavits from four of the agency's employees stating they were employed in their federally financed jobs to prepare for distribution Hawkins' letter of endorsement for Dollarhide, Cade and Mrs. Jackson.

Many of the endorsement letters have been mailed, but Judge Schauer said only those not yet mailed are affected by the restraining order.

MOSELEY ALSO said telegrams have been sent to the state and federal attorneys general offices, as well as other public agencies and officials, seeking further investigation of possible Hatch Act violations.

The Hatch Act prohibits government employees from engaging in political activities during working hours.

Officials of the U.S. Attorney General's office in Los Angeles said they had "received a phone call" regarding Moseley's suit, and they "are investigating the details."

Accountants Hit Qualifications for City Auditor

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

The city charter is deficient in establishing qualifications for candidates for city auditor, and the requirements should be stiffened, seven local certified public accountants have told the City Council.

"We feel that special qualifications should be met before a prospective candidate could file a petition of nomination for the office of city auditor," the accountants said in a letter to the council.

It was signed by Robert E. Ivey, David E. Cohee, Lee A. Crisell, Victor I. McCarty, Stephen L. McElrath, Russell F. Lesser, Jack S. Sullos Jr. and Nile M. Bunch.

The accountants said they wrote the letter after reading the statement of qualifications of Andrew H. Baird, candidate for auditor, although they did not mention him by name.

"WE NOTE THAT ONE of the candidates presents himself to the people as a 'cost engineer,'" the letter said. "We see little evidence in this man's stated qualifications that he possesses either technical accounting and auditing knowledge, or the administrative ability needed for the position of city auditor."

The letter reminded councilmen the present charter provides only "the city auditor shall be an experienced accountant, preferably one who has had experience in municipal accounting."

The seven CPAs pointed out candidates for both city attorney and city prosecutor must have passed the state bar exam and have been practicing attorneys for a specified number of years.

They suggested the City Council invite a board of "representative certified public accountants" in Long Beach to help develop standards which could be incorporated into the charter.

They urged councilmen to take steps to "strengthen" the charter so "only fully qualified candidates may present themselves to the electorate for the office of city auditor."

Seaplane 'Airline' Asks Airport Use

Councilmen will be asked Tuesday by Wilton R. Probert, general manager of Catalina Seaplanes Inc., to permit its flights to operate from Long Beach Airport.

Probert told councilmen by letter he has "operated this exact type of service as owner and chief pilot of Avalon Air Transport and Catalina Air Lines since August, 1953."

He said the company flies a Grumman Goose, a piston-powered plane, and proposes five trips daily.

PROBERT explained that last December, he accepted the post of general manager of Catalina Seaplanes Inc., and intended to extend its existing service to include Long Beach.

He applied to the Department of Aeronautics and was told no counter space was available, but that if he could negotiate shared space, he could operate.

Because of a decision to install new radio equipment in the aircraft, Probert said, he postponed start of operations until March.

When he notified Director of Aeronautics Nick Dallas he was ready, he was told the council had ruled against any new air service at the field, Probert said.

He insisted the proposal is "not a new operation," because he has been flying from the field for 15 years.

He argued, too, that his plane will not be a noise problem.

Probert said Walter Kleinsmid, his former partner in the two predecessor air lines, is a member of the Jet Control Association, and quoted Kleinsmid as saying that group is not opposed to piston-operated planes.

Campus Afloat Speech Sunday

Michael Parker, a Chapman College assistant English professor, will describe life aboard the school's World Campus Afloat at the Theta Sigma Phi Matrix Table brunch Sunday at 11 a.m. in Santa Ana's Saddleback Inn.

Parker will describe his impressions of the floating school to the members of the Orange County chapter of the women's professional journalism society, and tell what it was like to be an instructor aboard a shipboard college with 500 students.

CHICANO LEADER FACES DISTURBANCE CHARGE

Frank Sandoval, president of the United Mexican American Students at California State College, Long Beach is slated to enter a plea Tuesday or Wednesday in Los Angeles Municipal Court to charges he "disturbed" an April 25 speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Sandoval, 27, was arrested with 13 others after demonstrators attempted to interrupt Reagan's speech before the Nuevas Vistas Convention in the Biltmore Hotel.

However, Sandoval did not enter a plea Wednesday, as earlier reported.

Ten demonstrators entered innocent pleas, but three others and Sandoval were ordered to return later to enter pleas.

The 10 will face trial May 14 on the disturbance charges.

All were in the Biltmore audience when the governor began his talk, but about a third of the way through, the group stood up and began shouting.

One of the demonstrators, Rene Nunez, said he felt the group was falsely arrested and added the conference "wasn't dealing with the problems of Chicano students."

RESTAURANT EXECUTIVE Foiled Negro Astronaut Not Bitter

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Former astronaut trainee Edward J. Dwight, Jr., first Negro named to the U.S. spaceman program, is alive, well and minding his own business in Anaheim.

And unembittered over the sudden change in his treatment after the assassination of President Kennedy, which eventually led to his resignation from the Air Force and the space program.

"Kennedy was my sponsor and there was a dramatic change in my fortunes when he died," the 35-year-old restaurateur from Denver said Friday at the Disneyland Hotel.

"Up to then, I had everything going for me. Suddenly, nobody would talk to me."

"I COULD UNDERSTAND that if I had fallen down in the training program, but I graduated seventh in a class of 14 in the test pilot school."

In Anaheim to promote the chain of restaurants of which he is president at the Orange County Franchise and Business Opportunities Show, Dwight attributed his resignation in 1967 to bigotry.

"It's no secret," he said without rancor. "The Air Force and the space program are responsible to the Southern congressmen who control the purse strings. I understand that now."

A graduate of Arizona State and 14-year Air Force veteran, Dwight entered the space program in 1962, with Donn Eisele and David Scott, both of whom have since manned space missions.

One of Dwight's instructors in the program's test pilot school was Thomas Stafford, named to be command pilot on the Apollo 10 moon-orbit mission scheduled for launch May 18.

"I REALLY WANTED a shot at the moon, but it was obvious I wasn't going to get the chance," he said. "They kept shunting me aside."

After leaving the Air Force, Dwight worked for a time as a sales representative for a business machine firm, then developed the idea for Rib Cage International, the company he now heads. In spite of his experience, he said the firm does not practice discrimination in reverse.

"We're fully integrated," he explained. "out of 55 employees I think about 10 are black. Operating a business is like running any test project. You get good people, line up resources, synchronize everything and start operating."

In addition to the original restaurant chain in Colorado, franchises have been established in Kansas City, Detroit and Chicago, Dwight said.

The business is one of 75 on display in the trade show running from 1 to 9 p.m. daily through Monday in the Embassy Room of Disneyland Hotel.

Because of a decision to install new radio equipment in the aircraft, Probert said, he postponed start of operations until March.

When he notified Director of Aeronautics Nick Dallas he was ready, he was told the council had ruled against any new air service at the field, Probert said.

He insisted the proposal is "not a new operation," because he has been flying from the field for 15 years.

He argued, too, that his plane will not be a noise problem.

Probert said Walter Kleinsmid, his former partner in the two predecessor air lines, is a member of the Jet Control Association, and quoted Kleinsmid as saying that group is not opposed to piston-operated planes.

Campus Afloat Speech Sunday

Michael Parker, a Chapman College assistant English professor, will describe life aboard the school's World Campus Afloat at the Theta Sigma Phi Matrix Table brunch Sunday at 11 a.m. in Santa Ana's Saddleback Inn.

Parker will describe his impressions of the floating school to the members of the Orange County chapter of the women's professional journalism society, and tell what it was like to be an instructor aboard a shipboard college with 500 students.

CHICANO LEADER FACES DISTURBANCE CHARGE

Frank Sandoval, president of the United Mexican American Students at California State College, Long Beach is slated to enter a plea Tuesday or Wednesday in Los Angeles Municipal Court to charges he "disturbed" an April 25 speech by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Sandoval, 27, was arrested with 13 others after demonstrators attempted to interrupt Reagan's speech before the Nuevas Vistas Convention in the Biltmore Hotel.

However, Sandoval did not enter a plea Wednesday, as earlier reported.

Ten demonstrators entered innocent pleas, but three others and Sandoval were ordered to return later to enter pleas.

The 10 will face trial May 14 on the disturbance charges.

All were in the Biltmore audience when the governor began his talk, but about a third of the way through, the group stood up and began shouting.

One of the demonstrators, Rene Nunez, said he felt the group was falsely arrested and added the conference "wasn't dealing with the problems of Chicano students."

Carson Gets $8 Million Building Permits in April

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

A month-old building boom is under way in the Carson area, with the county issuing permits for construction worth $8,077,198.

Permits for both city and unincorporated territory contrasted sharply with the building and safety division's report for March. The figure then was slightly more than $1.5 million.

In terms of percentages the increase was the most impressive of any community in the Long Beach area served by the division.

Big gains were registered also by Lakewood and Cerritos.

For Lakewood the figures were $2,314,780 for April, $1,379,920 for March. Cerritos showed, respectively, $5,134,350 and $2,409,500.

Only two nearby communities showed a decline in building permit values covered in the same months. Hawaiian Gardens, incorporated and unincorporated, had $177,385 in April, down from $247,940 in March; and Rolling Hills registered $67,500 last month, down from $117,125.

In Hawaiian Gardens the drop, however, was in the territory outside the city. Within municipal boundaries the April total was $101,185, up from $27,940.

Rolling Hills Estates showed $133,100, up from a March figure of $98,750.

Permits issued in the city of Carson during April were almost identical for the incorporated and the unincorporated areas — slightly in excess of $4 million.

During March permits for $866,162 worth of construction were issued for Carson City's municipal territory. In the areas beyond the city the figure was $642,642.

The totals for all the territory served by the division were $58,447,141 in April, $29,653,091 in March. In April, 1968 the total was $69,024,652.

Building Permits Top $13-Million

For the third time this year, Long Beach monthly building values topped the $13 million mark with April permits reaching $13,488,725.

The 1969 total through the first four months was $44,687,351, more than double 1968's $20,753,678 for a comparable period.

Residential permits were issued for 214 units, valued at $1.9 million.

These included 16 single-family dwellings valued at $400,810; three duplexes worth $180,000, and 19 apartment buildings, valued at $1,388,460.

Largest single permit in April was for $4.9 million for construction at the Children's Hospital addition to Memorial Hospital.

A permit was also issued for site development of the north section of El Dorado Park East at a cost of $943,000.

There were six permits for industrial buildings, valued at $115,970, and seven for commercial structures valued at $377,800.

The month's total included 1,041 permits valued at $11,853,060; 688 plumbing permits for $636,811, and 502 electrical permits valued at $998,854.

Of the building permits, 353 were for new construction valued at $5,084,620, and the remaining 688 for alterations and repairs valued at $6,768,440.

RESTAURANT EXECUTIVE

Foiled Negro Astronaut Not Bitter

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Former astronaut trainee Edward J. Dwight, Jr., first Negro named to the U.S. spaceman program, is alive, well and minding his own business in Anaheim.

And unembittered over the sudden change in his treatment after the assassination of President Kennedy, which eventually led to his resignation from the Air Force and the space program.

"Kennedy was my sponsor and there was a dramatic change in my fortunes when he died," the 35-year-old restaurateur from Denver said Friday at the Disneyland Hotel.

"Up to then, I had everything going for me. Suddenly, nobody would talk to me.

"I COULD UNDERSTAND that if I had fallen down in the training program, but I graduated seventh in a class of 14 in the test pilot school."

In Anaheim to promote the chain of restaurants of which he is president at the Orange County Franchise and Business Opportunities Show, Dwight attributed his resignation in 1967 to bigotry.

"It's no secret," he said without rancor. "The Air Force and the space program are responsible to the Southern congressmen who control the purse strings. I understand that now."

A graduate of Arizona State and 14-year Air Force veteran, Dwight entered the space program in 1962, with Donn Eisele and David Scott, both of whom have since manned space missions.

One of Dwight's instructors in the program's test pilot school was Thomas Stafford, named to be command pilot on the Apollo 10 moon-orbit mission scheduled for launch May 18.

"I REALLY WANTED a shot at the moon, but it was obvious I wasn't going to get the chance," he said. "They kept shunting me aside."

After leaving the Air Force, Dwight worked for a time as a sales representative for a business machine firm, then developed the idea for Rib Cage International, the company he now heads. In spite of his experience, he said the firm does not practice discrimination in reverse.

"We're fully integrated," he explained. "out of 55 employees I think about 10 are black. Operating a business is like running any test project. You get good people, line up resources, synchronize everything and start operating."

In addition to the original restaurant chain in Colorado, franchises have been established in Kansas City, Detroit and Chicago, Dwight said.

The business is one of 75 on display in the trade show running from 1 to 9 p.m. daily through Monday in the Embassy Room of Disneyland Hotel.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: The coming year is somewhat quieter and more simple than the one you are just finishing. There will be many more things to do alone. Some responsibilities become less. Your creative talents come alive and lead to personal activity in many things which ordinarily you are not in the habit of doing. Today's natives usually involve themselves with the circulation of news.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are apt to find yourself taking on extra responsibility today. For the eligible, a marriage proposal is normal now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The work you are doing in this part of the year builds up toward results due to arrive in mid-September. Keep to the long view with your impulses disciplined to fit your general plan.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): See if you can make this Sunday a complete vacation. Go for an outing to some neighborhood you seldom or never visit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Family and social ties stir into much activity. You may have to travel or master some new skills to cover your share of the projects needed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The less you mix into family matters this Sunday the better. Life at the moment is much more interesting amongst strangers, provided you avoid any commercial effort of business activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The institutions of your life need consolidation. Make a deliberate survey of where you are. Bear with the restlessness of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Use your natural diplomacy today. You may have to make a visit to some place you are not in the habit of visiting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do your share then sell away from social activity. Efforts to increase income are bound to be favored soon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Young people take on great importance today, and your popularity builds up among them. Later in the day natively insist on time off for your own.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Other people may still seem a bit touchy, so hold back critical comments unless you are asked directly for an opinion. Avoid haste and fatigue today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This Sunday everybody is likely inclined to get into the act with advice on financial matters. Stay with the scheme which you know works. Likewise, know the limits of your own investment energy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Family relations settle on an even keel. Concern over money and material interests becomes less intense.

10 Easy steps to more informative newspaper reading for you

Read your Independent or Press-Telegram every day. Make it a habit, just like eating and sleeping.

Read beyond the headlines. The headlines give you a hint of what's going on, but don't depend on them for all your news.

Read the entire story for complete details. Don't be page one happy. Sure, the day's most important happenings are displayed on page one; but you'll have just an inkling of all the day's news if you don't get inside the paper.

Kick the "one subject" habit. You're missing plenty when you read only sports or comics or women's news. The well-informed person seeks information on many topics.

Sift what you see. Use your "Thinker" as well as your eyes as you read. Not qualifying words and "who said so". Don't take a charge for conviction, rumor for fact, or plans for accomplishments.

Be a fact seeker. Search out the facts in news stories. Digest them. Check the comment of columnists and editorial writers and consider their opinions. Then form your own conclusions.

Don't be a reading coward. There are always two sides to a question or issue. Develop a well-rounded outlook by considering opinions and ideas different from your own.

Get out of your reading rut. Read at least one story, editorial or column every day that's completely apart from your normal reading interest. You'll become a more interesting person, a better conversationalist when you know more about things.

Shop your newspaper before you buy. Shop and compare in your own easy chair. You'll find the best bargains in town in your Independent or Press-Telegram.

10

Snip and save. Many items in your Independent or Press-Telegram are of lasting interest. But, please, don't snip until everyone in the family has had a chance to read the paper!
